SMITH CANDIDACY A SECONDARY FACTOR

Chieftains Not Alarmed Over Reports of Conferences Between McAdoo, and Glass and Cummings

By CHARLES H. HAND.
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Pooling their political assets so as to make common cause against the nomination of William Gibbs McAdoo, the big-league Democratic leaders from half a dozen states have planned to put the Californian out of the running without passing judgment upon the presidential prospects of his chief rival, Gov.
Alfred E. Smith.

The formation of this powerful alliance was the reply of the anti-McAdoo forces, banded together irrespective of their presidential preferences, to the announcement that McAdoo would organize the convention, control its committees and write its platform.

George E. Brennan of Illinois,
Norman E. Mack of New York,
Frank Moore of Ohio, Frank Taggart of New Jersey, and spokesmen for Joseph V. Guffey of Pennsylvania, and Tom Taggart of Indiana have mutually pledged themselves to stop McAdoo at all hazards.

Other lesser lights called in by the allied bosses have subscribed to what amounted to an anti-Mc-Adoo oath.

All of them agreed that while they had always opposed McAdoo for political reasons, they were convinced that if the convention nominates him he never could be elected.

Brennan speaks for Smith.
Brennan took the lead after he had conferred with Gov. Smith in the latter's headquarters. Smith, it was said, commissioned Brennan to act as his spokesman and chief strategist. Fortified with this authority, Brennan drew about him in a dozen or more informal powwows the spokesmen for delegates hostile to McAdoo.

Count Pursues Fleeing American Wife and Baby

Father of Child, Commander of Italian Air

By the Associated Press.
ROME, June 20.—The wife of Gen. Pier Ruggero Piccio, one of the aces of the World War and now commander of Italian Aeronautics, who was recently prevented by her husband from sailing to America with her child, following numerous marital disagreements, has succeeded in escaping with the infant from Naples to Civita Vec-chia, from which place she crossed to Sardinia and then went by motor boat to Corsica, according to reports published in newspapers here today. She was formerly Miss Loranda Bachelier of Chicago.

NEWBERRY ATTACK COST HIM G. O. P. POST, KENYON SAYS

Hopes, However, Time Has Not Come When Denunciation of Buying Seats Will Defeat Candidate.

By the Associated Press.
MASON CITY, Ia., June 20.—Expressing a hope that "the time has not come when denunciation of the buying of seats in the Senate will keep anyone from being elected to office," Federal Judge William S.
Kenyon told farmers here yesterday that he was glad he had not been elected to the Senate, but that he believed the time had not yet come to enter the arena of politics again.

"After I resigned from the Senate in order to accept this position," he said, "I spoke to an audience in Missouri and there I said something about Newberry. I denounced the buying of office."
The very next day, before I had been sworn into the office of Judge, there were men who got up in the Senate and demanded my immediate impeachment.

"And that, according to what I read and hear, was the reason for my defeat at Cleveland as a vice presidential possibility. For this I am truly thankful, but I hope that the time has not come when denunciation of the buying of seats in the Senate will keep anyone from being elected to office."

Kenyon said that he had been informed that the time had not yet come to enter the arena of politics again.

ABANDONMENT OF LINDELL TRAFFIC CIRCLE ADVISED

Special Commission of Three Named by Circuit Court Reports on Forest Park Entrance Project.

"NO BENEFITS TO ADJACENT PROPERTY" City Should Pay All if It Is Built, It Is Decided, and Damages Are Assessed at $388,265.

Abandonment of the plan for the Lindell Circus, or enlarged traffic circle at the Lindell entrance of Forest Park, is recommended by the special commission of three, named by the Circuit Court to assess damages and benefits for the proposed improvement, in a report made today to City Counselor Sent. The recommendation is made
"with all due respect to the City Plan Commission," which planned the circus.

If the circus is built as planned the Commissioners hold that the city should pay the entire cost more than $400,000, and that the owners of adjoining property should pay nothing, as it is held that they would not be benefited.

The Commissioners are Max Sig-eloff and Louis E. Truesler, lawyers, and Herman Meuser, coal dealer and Republican City Commissioner.

Damages Assessed at $388,265.
They decided that there were no benefits to adjacent property owners, and hence the only detailed work they undertook was to assess damages, which reach a total of $388,265. Besides the damages, the cost of the improvement would include grading and construction, which and the cost of the Commissioners' duty to estimate.

In the course of the work, the report states, "the Commissioners on several occasions went to the grounds affected, namely, Kingshighway and Lindell, and other streets adjacent thereto, for the purpose of determining whether any benefits would accrue to the property owners. After due consideration, the Commissioners have concluded that neither the property owners, nor those owning property near by, would derive any benefits, and consequently made no such assessments. This for the reason that additional automobile traffic would be no benefit, possibly a detriment.

today. It is reported that the work of perfecting the motors of the dirigible is progressing satisfactorily.

City Sets Gasoline at 14 Cents.

By the Associated Press.
JAMAICA, N. B., June 20.—The price of gasoline was cut from 15 to 14 cents a gallon here yesterday at the municipal station operated by City Commissioner John Hopkins, who announced another 1 cent reduction would be made today. The cut was made possible, he said, by better prices at the refineries. Most independent and other dealers are selling at 15 cents, and one is retailing at 13 cents.

THINKS $250,000 SHOULD HAVE BEEN ACCOUNTED FOR

Statement by Strodman Prompts an Investigation

Judges.

CONTENDS LAW FIXES SALARY AT $10,000

Declares It Has Been customary to Retain Fees in Addition to Stipend Limited by Statute.

A committee of Circuit Judges, appointed in general term, is investigating to determine whether it is legal for the Sheriff of St. Louis to retain any fee without accounting for it.

The investigation was prompted by a statement to the Judges by Sheriff George W. Strodman, that it had been customary for Sheriffs to retain fees in addition to their salary of $10,000 a year, and that the records were kept in such a way that there was no way of telling whether a Sheriff retained $10,000 or $25,000 a year.

In a report made to the Judges, Sheriff Strodman accounted for all fees received by his office, something that has not been done by any of his predecessors, and he told the Judges that, in his opinion, a quarter of a million dollars in fees had not thus been accounted for in the last 35 years.

Peary Heads Committee.
The committee of Judges, of which Judge Peary is chairman, has taken Sheriff Strodman's report, which is for the period from July 1 last to Jan. 1, to compare it with those of some of his predecessors, the purpose being to ascertain if other Sheriffs have accounted for certain fees from the various sources which Sheriff Strodman's report contains.

In this group are fees on warrants and bonds; fees for making service of writs from outside jurisdictions, and certain payments made to the Sheriff by the Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction and the Clerk of the Court for Criminal Causes.

The Sheriff's office is a fee office, but the present Sheriff contends that the salary is limited by law to $10,000 a year and that the office is entitled to no other compensation. If fees of the aforesaid group are funds for which the Sheriff need not account, Sheriff Strodman told the Judges, the job would be worth approximately $18,000 a year.

What the Law States.
The authority fixing the salary of the Sheriff of St. Louis is embodied in Section 597 of the revised code applicable to the City of St. Louis, which says:

By the Associated Press.

flight of Russell Maughan was called off at 2:36 a. m. today because of weather conditions. Dense fog, hanging over the metropolitan

CHILD KEEPS FIREMEN ON RUN

Seven-Year-Old Syracuse (N. Y.)
Girl "Talked to See Engines."

By the Associated Press.
SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 20.—
An epidemic of false alarms of fire in Syracuse within the past few weeks is charged by police against a 7-year-old girl, who "talked to see the fire engines."
The girl was identified by school teachers today after she had refused, for more than 12 hours, to answer questions put to her by the police, other than to admit she turned in a "lot of fire alarms."

So many false alarms were turned in daily before the girl was apprehended that a special detail of detectives was ordered to investigate and they were given orders to shoot on sight any person caught sounding a false alarm.
Even this failed to stop the practice, and each night several false alarms kept firemen on the jump.
The boxes were in such close proximity each time that it was apparent one person or group was responsible. The girl was arrested Wednesday night by a patrolman who saw her pull an alarm and run to hiding between two houses.

CLUES TO GRAVE OF MATTEOTTI PROVE FALSE

Excavations at Points Indicated by Chirzel, One of the Accused, Reveal Nothing.

MUSSOLINI WAITING THE RIGHT MOMENT

Premier Expected to Do Something Startling When Dramatic Effect Will Be Greatest.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, June 20.—Mystery still surrounds the whereabouts of Giacomo Matteotti, the Socialist member of the Chamber of Deputies, who disappeared more than a week ago. The authorities, acting on the contents of a letter purporting to tell where Matteotti's body had been buried, visited the scene described in the letter and made several excavations, but found nothing.

The police also made a search of a villa near Fiume, where Otto Chirzel, who is under arrest in connection with the disappearance of Matteotti, declared in a confession the body of Matteotti had been hidden. This search also was without avail.

Mussolini Bides His Time.
Meantime as the political sequences of the disappearance of Matteotti become more and more menacing to officers hitherto holding high positions in the Government, Premier Mussolini is assuming an attitude which is causing many of the prominent political leaders to wonder if and when he is going to strike back against his opponents.

Those in close touch with the Premier express the belief that he has a finger on the political pulse of the nation and is merely biding his time so that when he acts it will have the greatest dramatic effect.

There seems to be a growing sentiment in the Fascist party to reassert faith in the leader of the March on Rome in the belief that he is strong enough to perform the political surgical operation of cutting away what are termed the parasitic growth on the Fascist movement and yet preserve the virility for the further good of the country.

Final Seek Investigation.
In addition to the excitement arising through the arrest of Giovanni Marinelli, a former member of the directorate of the Fascist party, for alleged connection with the disappearance and possible murder of Matteotti, one of the most noteworthy developments in the case today was that Signor Finzi, former Minister of the Interior, who resigned his portfolio several days ago, sent a letter to the president of the Chamber of Deputies requesting him to appoint a Parliamentary committee of inquiry into his public and private life. This committee, according to the rules of the Chamber of Deputies, must include members of both the majority and the opposition.

The Government has issued an official communication declaring that its decree permitting the operation of the gambling houses with which Finzi's name has been prominently connected would not be applied until Parliament has had an opportunity to debate the matter.

Signor Freddi resigned as head of the press bureau of the Fascist party yesterday.

French Chamber Extends Sympathy to Italian Parliament.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 20.—Before adjourning last night the Chamber of Deputies by a show of hands in which the members of the left outnumbered those of the right and center, adopted a resolution of sympathy with the Italian Parliament on the kidnapping of Deputy Matteotti. When the resolution was passed, Premier Herriot said the French Government made such reservations as were due Italian sovereignty.

Looking 'Em Over With Frueh

WM G. MCADOO

GOV. AL SMITH

Leaders From Large States Combine to Beat M'Adoo

Lynchburg, Va., and refused to discuss his own presidential prospects as the residuary legatees of the McAdoo following, brought with him printed copies of the platform adopted by the Virginia Democrats. Parts of this document, written by Glass, may be blended in the platform the McAdoo people hope to put over.

The Glass platform contains vitriolic attacks upon the three Harding Cabinet officers who were snuggled in the Washington investigations and specifically assailed Taft, Denby and Fall. It condemns the Ku Klux Klan in these words:

"Any set or crowd which assaults or seeks, openly or covertly, to impair the inalienable right of religious freedom is to be deemed as a menace to organized society."

Underwood's Manager on Hand.
C. C. Carlin, manager of Senator Underwood's presidential boom, took charge of the Alabama headquarters at the Waldorf, with Oliver P. Newman as his chief assistant. Carlin sat in with the directors of other booms, including Brennan, Mack, Moore and Hague.

We will compel McAdoo to show his hand early in the game. We intend to have a vote on a plank denouncing the Ku Klux Klan, even if one is not incorporated in the platform. I am in complete agreement with Mr. Brennan, who already has declared publicly that the Klan must be repudiated by name. The McAdoo people will have to take a stand for or against the Klan. We will not tolerate any pussyfooting."

Exactly the kind of anti-Ku Klux Klan plank the New York delegation favors may be revealed today when a special committee named to frame the ideas of the Smith contingent will report.

John A. Matthews of Newark, N. J., who is to nominate Gov. Silver of New Jersey for the presidency, indicated that New Jersey will back New York in whatever expression it deems most effective concerning the Ku Klux Klan.

Two-Thirds Rule Fight.
From the McAdoo headquarters orders have been issued to soft-pedal on the scheme to thrust aside the two-thirds rule. This stopped the insistent talk among McAdoo men in favor of nominations by majority vote.

From a well-informed source it is learned that the McAdoo contingent now plans to sneak in the majority rule and at the same time retain the two-thirds rule under which several delegations are tied to the McAdoo chariot.

McAdoo experts explained the convention probably will vote first on the revocation of the two-thirds rule, and secondly on the unit rule.

On both of these proposals delegates it was admitted, may vote individually and not be bound by instructions. McAdoo's parliamentarians in charge of the maneuvers claimed enough votes pledged to kill the majority rule, yet to retain the unit rule.

Cheer From Oklahoma City.
Reassuring news has been received at the headquarters of Gov. Smith from Oklahoma City. It was that Gov. M. E. Trapp, who became Chief Executive after the Ku Klux members of the Legislature ousted his predecessor, Jack Walton, hoped to swing the Oklahoma delegation to the New York Governor.

Gov. Trapp, according to the advice, plans to supplant Edward M. Seaman as chairman of the Oklahoma delegation. Seaman, who is an ardent McAdoo follower, was reported to have evidence that Oklahoma boosters for Smith long ago plotted to get the delegation. Gov. Trapp denied being leaving Oklahoma yesterday that he aspired to lead the delegation. He said differences in the delegation would be settled when he reaches this city Sunday or Monday.

Connecticut delegates favorable to Smith, said today that in the alphabetical roll call, their state will yield to New York to nominate Smith. A wire from Hartford stated that 12 of Connecticut's 14 votes would go to Smith and that a majority would support a plank pledging modification of the Volstead act.

How Iowa Lines Up.
Although Clyde L. Herring, new National Committee chairman from Iowa and zealous advocate of McAdoo's nomination, declared Gov. Smith has only two and a half votes in the Iowa delegation, Wilbur Marsh, former treasurer of the National Committee, said that among the 24 delegates, nine and a half are for Smith and 10 1/2 for McAdoo.

McAdoo workers commissioned to report all available gossip to the headquarters, obtained discouraging information from Howard Everett, National Committee member from Minnesota. Everett said that out of the state's 24 delegates, 18 are for Smith and a nineteenth disposed to favor him.

"There are only five McAdoo men in our delegation," said Everett. "Gov. Smith's campaign directors stand no fight in our state. Smith won because he was the favorite. Minnesota voters want a sane, honest administration at Washington. They think they can get one under Smith. That's why they are for him. The business interests are particularly strong for Smith. Minnesota of course, is anxious to have the Volstead act revised."

Tentative Platform Avoids Specific Mention of Prohibition.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Scandal in the administration of Government affairs as disclosed by Senate investigations has the dominant place in a tentative Democratic platform in process of drafting by a group of party leaders.

Foreign relations with particular reference to the World Court, agricultural aid and economy in Government expenditure coupled with tax reduction also will be dealt with in other principal planks.

Prohibition, the Ku Klux Klan issue, and foreign affairs probably will be the main fighting points before the Resolutions Committee. The present tentative draft of the platform omits specific mention of prohibition, but contains a plank with a strong declaration for law enforcement. There is no mention of the Ku Klux Klan.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, and representatives of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment are on the ground and promise to make a strong fight for specific declaration of the party.

The foreign relations plank as it now shapes up after conferences among leaders reaffirms in general the foreign policies of the Democratic party as they have been laid down over a period of years, and severely assails the policies of the present administration.

The phraseology of the plank is still to be agreed upon, but at present there appears to be a swing toward omission of any flat insistence upon a specific form of international co-operation, with the League of Nations occupying only an incidental position in the general scheme of foreign relations. It is the present purpose to declare in strong terms that the United States must find a way to co-operate with some sort of league or association, without repeating the 1920 declaration for complete acceptance of the covenant of Versailles.

With regard to the world court, the plank as it now stands directly accuses the Republican party of equivocation and declares it is attempting to lift bodily a cardinal Democratic policy by advocating membership in the court.

Some of the Wilson followers, including Senator Glass, would like to see in the platform a repetition of the league plank of 1920. There has been some discussion over that proposal, and it is possible the fight may be carried to the convention floor. The leaders generally are trowling on the plan, holding that the position of the party has been so well defined that a reaffirmation in general terms will be sufficient.

Hearst Paper Notifies Report of Truce With Smith.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Reports of a peace pact between W. R. Hearst and Gov. Smith drew attention from Hearst's American today. It printed a box on page one headed, "His News to Mr. Reply of Hyman on Smith Truce."

A story of the activities of Gov. Smith and claims of his supporters was headed "Smith's Count Shows Deficit."

SMITH TELLS OF PLEDGES FROM MCADOO STATES
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Conferences with Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, Wilbur Marsh of Iowa, and George E. Brennan of Chicago kept Gov. Smith up until late last night.

The Governor today reiterated confidence that he would be nominated. In answer to a question about who would be his second choice in the event of a Smith-McAdoo deadlock, he said:

"There's no such thing as a second choice. Amplifying that statement, I believe I'll be nominated for I am convinced that when the convention gets through paying its compliments to favorite sons and dark horse candidates, it will get down to figuring who could most assuredly win his way to the White House."

Asked concerning the McAdoo claim to 450 votes on the first ballot, Gov. Smith said he did not know about that.

M'ADOO MEN PLAN TO DOMINATE CONVENTION

Attempt Under Way to Shape Rules Under Which Nominations Are to Be Made.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Following conferences between William G. McAdoo, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, and Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, the convention strategy of the McAdoo boomers has taken the form of a bold attempt to dominate the organization of the Democratic National Convention from top to bottom.

Force through a McAdoo platform and shape the rules under which the nominations are to be made.

In a statement from the McAdoo headquarters, issued under the name of W. L. Thornton of Dallas, Texas, it was announced Thornton had made a poll of more than 40 States on the question of abolishing the two-thirds rule and that delegates from 30 States had gone on record as favoring the change.

If these claims are correct, it means there should be a majority in favor of it in the Rules Committee, thus forcing the fight to the convention floor.

Glass a Friend of McAdoo.
The utmost importance is attached to the talk which McAdoo had with Senator Glass and Cummings, Senator Glass, who has the solid backing of his own Virginia delegation for the nomination, is a friend of McAdoo and undoubtedly can throw to him the 24 Virginia votes any time he chooses.

He is freely mentioned as the most likely legate of most of the McAdoo strength in case the latter drops out. He probably will be the Virginia representative on the Resolutions Committee. Cummings is the McAdoo candidate for chairman of the platform committee.

While the only official word forthcoming was that matters of organization were discussed, it is understood McAdoo presented his own views on what the platform should contain.

It is generally conceded that the main platform struggle between the McAdoo and Smith forces will be on the Ku Klux Klan, League of Nations and Prohibition.

George E. Brennan, Illinois leader, has been bitter in his attitude against the hooded organization and insists that the Democratic platform must definitely denounce the Ku Klux Klan. Managers of the McAdoo campaign have reversed the stand taken by their candidates in his Southern speech on Americanism and religious tolerance.

To Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, has been designated the duty of framing the fundamental planks in the platform.

Count on 32 States.
The plans to control the organization of the convention are based on a survey which has convinced the McAdoo managers they will have about 32 States on which they can depend. While the delegates from these States by no means represent a majority of the convention, important committees are made up of one delegate from each State. This, it is figured, will give McAdoo a clear majority on the resolutions committee and enable him virtually to dictate the platform. Samuel B. Amidon of Kansas said McAdoo would have 450 votes on the first ballot.

Asked concerning the McAdoo claim to 450 votes on the first ballot, Gov. Smith said he did not know about that.

ASA G. CANDLER SUES FOR A DIVORCE

Millionaire Says Former Stenographer Was Cruel to Him and Left at His Demand.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., June 20.—Asa G. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, has brought suit for a divorce from Mrs. May Little Candler. The papers allege cruel treatment. The divorce petition was filed in the Fulton County Superior Court late yesterday and became public today.

Candler, the millionaire founder of the Coca-Cola Company, was married to Mrs. May Little Candler, a public stenographer in the Candler building, one year ago. After a honeymoon trip to Northern cities, the capitalist installed his bride in the palatial Candler home in the exclusive Druid Hills residential section of Atlanta.

Was Sued for Half Million.
Before his second marriage Candler was sued for $500,000 for breach of promise by Mrs. Onizima de Bouchel of New Orleans. The verdict was for Candler, the trial taking place after his marriage to Mrs. Ragin.

Some months ago Atlanta was startled by the announcement of Chief of Police J. L. Beavers that Candler, who is an Atlanta business man, W. J. Stoddard and G. W. Keeling, had been arrested in a raid on a fashionable apartment house in the North Side residential section while sitting around a table on which was a bottle partly filled with liquor. The charges were dismissed. Mrs. Candler, according to reports, moved from the Druid Hills residence to the home of her mother.

The plaintiff is about 72 years old. He has five children by a former marriage.

Separated Last February.
Candler's petition sets forth that the couple separated last Feb. 9. "She left petitioner's home at petitioner's demand," the suit says. It alleges that Mrs. Candler, soon after the marriage, showed that she had no love for him, never had loved him, and had married him "for other motives." The defendant admitted this at the time of the separation, according to the petition.

She paid not the slightest attention to making a home for the petitioner," Candler charges. He also alleges that Mrs. Candler would leave home early in the morning each day, remaining out until night. She "spent a large part of the day driving in an automobile in the country with a man whom she would meet at various times and places," the document relates. No man is named.

Candler charges that his bride "cursed and vilified," made deliberate efforts to wound and harass him, "ignoring and insulting his friends," and causing him great mental distress, which impaired his health and peace of mind.

In these acts, the petition charges, she "willfully persisted" until the situation became unbearable to Candler and resulted in the final separation, Feb. 9.

WOMAN GIVES UP SIGNATURE TO ADMIREN'S

Ceding of Rights Follows in Court—Wife of Dead Man Cut Off With $5.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Carrie Sullivan, chief beneficiary of the will of Dr. Israel Finkel, a dentist, ceded her rights in the $100,000 estate to the dentist's widow, who had been cut off with $5, after a hearing before Judge George M. Schulz of the Supreme Court yesterday.

Dr. Finkel lived with his wife 14 years, but about two years ago Mrs. Finkel obtained a separation from her husband. The decree was granted by Justice McHugh in Manhattan. Miss Sullivan was named as the co-respondent and Dr. Finkel was ordered to pay her alimony.

Dr. Finkel died last January. When his will was opened it was found that he had bequeathed almost all his estate to Mrs. Finkel. The will was dated Oct. 21, 1932, three days after the separation from her husband. Mrs. Finkel contended that her husband was mentally unbalanced when he made the will.

Severe Storm in Northern Illinois.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 20.—A severe storm, involving wind, lightning, rain and hail, impaired telephone service and destroyed hundreds of handshakes in Northern Illinois this morning. A storm near Mount Carroll was particularly injurious when a lightning bolt struck a telephone wire, hurling it against a window, slashing his throat.

Further Testimony to Support Co-Testator's Unsound Mind.
A nightmare in which room full of devils, and mention that he hunted midday in a cornfield were further evidences of Dr. Finkel's mental unbalance, according to the testimony of his widow.

Mrs. A. E. Moll of 602 man avenue, his niece by whom he nursed him in his last days, gave the testimony about the dream.

"Irritable and Childish."
"He was irritable and childish and had bad dreams," she testified. "One time he was awake, the room is on fire," we testified. He said he was in a room full of devils dancing in the room. The room was full of devils dancing."

Frederick Moll Jr., 7 years, is suing through his mother, Maude Harden, of 2242 P. ave. to have the will set aside on the ground that his grandfather was mentally unbalanced when he made the will.

Pollock, an attorney, to a bulk of his $150,000 estate young Frederick, a son of his, son, Siegfried.

Mrs. Harden took the testimony of her dealings with her attorney, Pollock, that Moll was subject to outbursts of rage. On one occasion after he had rebuked her in serving a meal prepared for him he said: "I am going to kill you," according to the testimony.

"During Mr. Moll's last illness, Pollock refused to let him and would not even let Frederick into the sick room. I took him to see his grandfather."

Her son, Siegfried, testified that he lived at Moll's farm at 10 Mo. one summer and frequent disputes with the father. "One time he got mad because I hadn't heated his bath," the witness testified. "He tried to light the oil stove. I saw that he was the burners the wrong way. He showed him how. He said: 'I am sorry for his strong language and added, 'I'm a doctor. Both Mrs. Harden and Frederick Moll was a heavy drinker. He would order a case of beer every day."

The testimony as to Moll's hunting habits was given by Charles Weisman, who testified that he was a friend of his for many years. "I saw him in the cornfield with a shotgun," Weisman testified, "and went out to see him. He told me he had a right to shoot rabbits in the cornfield."

Rabbit-Hunting Custom.
Contestant's attorney testified this was an evidence of Moll's mental unbalance. The practice generally followed by those who hunt them at the time to go out in early morning after sundown and shoot the rabbits along the roadside woods.

Mrs. Moll, who testified the testator's dream was about the suit of his band, Adolf E. Moll, ceded the will on the ground that Dr. Finkel was an insane child, and that he was the al heir.

NIECE SAYS MOLL SAW 'ROOMFULL OF DANCING DEVILS'

Liquor Dealer Cried "Room Is on Fire," Testifies Woman Who Nursed Him in Last Illness.

MIDDAY RABBIT HUNT ALSO IS DESCRIBED

Further Testimony Given to Support Contention That Testator Was of Unsound Mind.

A nightmare in which he saw a room full of devils, and the contention that he hunted rabbits at midday in a cornfield in June, were further evidences that Frederick Moll, wholesale liquor dealer, was of unsound mind, those testifying to break his will are claiming in trial of the suit which entered its fifth day in Circuit Judge Taylor's court today.

Mrs. A. E. Moll, of 6039 Waterman avenue, his niece by marriage, gave the testimony about Moll's dreams.

"I was irritable and childish," she said, "that Moll Pollack influenced Mr. Moll. I am a beneficiary under the will, and if it is set aside I will get nothing. But I will gladly give up my bequest to keep that man from getting anything."

The defense, which began its testimony first and closed yesterday, sought to show that Moll's relatives neglected him; that he felt indebted to Pollack for business advice and liked his son, Siegfried; and that he was well-balanced and possessed a strong will.

Thus far, the contestants have dwelt on Moll's addition to the use of liquor with an idea of showing that he suffered from senile dementia. They also have brought out many alleged eccentricities. In one instance witnesses related that Moll harnessed a pig to a cart and went calling on his friends.

"Early Settlers" in G. O. P. Democrats, who are in the minority in the Senate, have been filibustering for six months because the Republicans have refused to support the constitutional referendum bill. As a result of the deadlock, appropriation measures for the support of State institutions have been held up.

The early settlers—the real old "New England Yankee stock"—are the power behind the Republican party in Rhode Island. The original early settlers, of course, have long since been gathered into the arms of their fathers. But they have handed down their farms and their traditions to their children and these children are fighting hard to keep the family faith.

The newer comers make up the backbone of the Democratic party. These are the city dwellers, including the thousands of mill and factory workers that inhabit the larger communities and between the two elements the lines are drawn with but bitterness.

Strings on Democratic Victory. The Democrats at the last general election, in 1922, succeeded in electing a Governor, a Lieutenant-Governor, a Treasurer and an Attorney-General. This was by far the greatest victory they had ever achieved. They had in years gone by elected a Democratic Governor or two, but never so nearly an entire slate.

But they lost the Senate and the House. The reason, they argued, was to be found in Rhode Island's venerable Constitution, which provides for representation in the Legislature on anything but a proportional basis. The Senate, for instance, is composed of one member for each of the 39 cities and towns in the State. Under that provision Providence, which boasts some 250,000 population, has two Senators, and so has West Greenwich, with its 150 odd souls.

Casting their eyes down the popular returns, which were so decidedly in their favor, and then taking a glance over the complexion of the Legislature, the Democrats decided there was only one thing to do—change the Constitution so that their votes would mean as much in the Legislature as they did in the gubernatorial chair.

Accordingly, Senator Robert E. Quinn drafted a bill providing for a popular referendum next November on the calling of a constitutional convention. The Republican House, with a Republican Speaker, smiled broadly at thought of what it would do to that bill when it came to the House.

Ultimatum to Majority. But the Democrats, though outnumbered, had the laugh in the Senate. Under the Constitution, the Lieutenant-Governor presides over the Senate, and Lieutenant-Governor Fells A. Toppin, a French-Canadian stock—was a Democrat. With him in the chair a filibuster was easy. So the Democrats sent the Republicans word ists in traversing along this highway, especially when one considers that there are many other streets in the City of St. Louis upon which there is a greater amount of continuous automobile traffic during most of the day, upon which no circles are being contemplated.

ABANDONMENT OF LINDELL TRAFFIC CIRCLE ADVISED

"Attention is called to the fact that immediately south of the main entrance to Forest Park on Kingshighway there is an entrance which is frequently used by motorists to and from the Park. Across that entrance there is a track used as the Laclede line terminus. Were this track removed and the terminus of the Laclede line placed at the east side of Kingshighway on Laclede, similar to that of the Maryland line at Kingshighway and Maryland, and the entrance widened, motorists coming from the south could enter Forest Park by that entrance, and those coming from the north on Kingshighway could use the main entrance.

One-Way Traffic Suggested. "Moreover, one-way traffic has been successfully carried out on downtown streets; there is therefore no reason why the same rule could not be invoked on Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard.

"With all due respect to the City Plan Commission in having conceived of the idea of a circle at Kingshighway and Lindell, we believe that there is no present or future need to expend several hundred thousand dollars of taxpayers' money for the purpose of relieving traffic at a certain point on the thoroughfare in question."

Details of the estimated damages, as shown in the commissioners' more complete report, are: James Campbell estate, northwest corner, two lots, damages $41,265; Hugh Campbell property, southeast corner, $110,000; Hotel Chase ground and building, $237,000. The damages to land holdings are both actual and consequential, and in the case of the Chase the damage from the building is estimated at $81,000, because of decreased rental which might result from an increase of traffic, nearer to the hotel than at present. The Chase ownership made a claim for $500,000 damages.

The City Plan Commission's original estimate of $1,000,000 for the firm, including damages and construction, was $135,000.

that until a constitutional convention was adopted there would be nothing doing in the way of legislation—particularly there would be no appropriation bill to meet the expenses, and there has been none—not since the Senate started Jan. 1. Summoning all their parliamentary skill, they had blocked practically everything the Republicans tried to do, and the session, which normally should have ended in 60 days, dragged on and on. The fight gathered venom with each succeeding day.

This week there has been a small-sized riot on the chamber floor, a flat fight between a Democratic Senator and a Republican party worker, and the slinging of enough mud to blacken everybody's reputation for miles around if half of it were believed—and finally the gassing incident.

Militia May Be Called. Each camp accuses the other of having placed a bomb. Each accuses the other of having employed the professional gangsters and gunmen who have been identified in copious quantities in the spectators' gallery of the Senate.

The Republicans are talking about "foreigners" and "radical elements" in the Democratic camp. And the Democrats are countering with talk about the Ku Klux Klan.

Both sides agree that serious trouble is imminent unless the impasse is ended in some way. The Democratic police and Republican deputy sheriffs already have been called into play to handle the situation, and Gov. Flynn may yet be compelled to make good on his threat to call out the militia.

SHERIFF CALLS FOR INVESTIGATION OF HIS PREDECESSOR'S FEES

any, in the general fund goes to the city treasury.

Notie's Statement. There are only two former Sheriffs living, Louis Notie, who is now City Comptroller, and George P. Weinbrenner. When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter today if he had retained any fees for which he made no accounting, Comptroller Notie, who was Sheriff for six years, 1908-13, said:

"It is true that I retained the fees in the group you mention, and did so on advice of my attorney at that time. Jephtha D. Howe, deceased. When I became Sheriff I noticed a separate account in the office under the head of private fees."

"I inquired of men who had been employed in the Sheriff's office 20 years and they informed me that the private fees were to be retained by me in addition to my salary. I thereupon took the matter up with Mr. Howe, who I presume looked into the law and advised me that those fees were to be retained by me in addition to my salary, and so I took them, as did my predecessors."

Comptroller Notie added that he believed the Sheriff's office should be on a flat salary basis and that the State should be responsible for the acts of the Sheriff. As the matter stands, Notie said, a Sheriff is liable to suit under his bond and must defend the suit at his own expense.

Reports Now on File. Although the Sheriff of St. Louis is required by statute to make semiannual reports of receipts and expenditures of his office, there are only a few such reports now in the files of the Circuit Clerk.

These are Mohrstadt's for the years of 1921, Dickmann's for the year ending Dec. 31, 1913; Dickmann's for the period from Jan. 4, 1915, to June 30, 1915; Dickmann's from Jan. 1, 1916, to Dec. 31, 1916; Notie's for 1910, 1909 and 1907; Dickmann's, in a previous term, from Jan. 1, 1904, to June 30, 1904; for the six months ending June 30, 1903, and the period ending Dec. 31, 1903. There are also the reports of Patrick H. Clark, who was Sheriff in 1906, and the report of Patrick Stead for 1894.

Memoranda in the files show that the reports of 1917, 1918 and 1919, the term of George P. Weinbrenner, were removed from the files April 5, 1921, by order of Circuit Judge Garesche and Davis. These are Mohrstadt's for the year ending Dec. 31, 1913; Dickmann's for the period from Jan. 4, 1915, to June 30, 1915; Dickmann's from Jan. 1, 1916, to Dec. 31, 1916; Notie's for 1910, 1909 and 1907; Dickmann's, in a previous term, from Jan. 1, 1904, to June 30, 1904; for the six months ending June 30, 1903, and the period ending Dec. 31, 1903. There are also the reports of Patrick H. Clark, who was Sheriff in 1906, and the report of Patrick Stead for 1894.

A Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday examined the records in the offices of the Clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction and the Clerk of the Court for Criminal Causes, which show that $52,629.03 was paid by those officers in fees in the last 20 years to Sheriffs. This sum does not represent the total of all fees in the group for which Sheriffs made no accounting. The fees on bonds and for service with foreign writs are included in the above. The records of the Sheriff's office, Sheriff Strodtman said, do not show that this sum was turned in the general fund. Both he and Notie said it had been customary for Sheriffs to retain revenue from this source as private fees.

Sheriff Strodtman is president of the Strodtman & Strodtman Real Estate Co., 2607 North Broadway, and prior to his appointment by Gov. Hyde as Sheriff to serve out the unexpired term of Sheriff Mohrstadt, who died in 1922, was chairman of the Republican City Committee. His term as Sheriff expires at the end of this year. The office is to be filled at the November election, and Strodtman is not a candidate.

CITY AGAIN PUTS OFF ACTION ON PARK STRIP

Purchase of Tower Grove Ground Has Been Up Every Year Since 1917.

The city Government has reached its annual decision to defer action as to acquiring the 200-foot strip of land surrounding Tower Grove Park. It has been deferring action every year since 1917, when the trustees of the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden, which has a money interest in the matter, began demanding a settlement.

The 200-foot strip runs around the park, except at the entrances. To the public it looks just like the rest of the park, and it is used for park purposes. But Henry Shaw, donor of the park, planned that the city should lease the ground to individuals, for the building of private residences—"Villas" he termed them. And he specified that the rentals from such leases should go to the garden.

The idea of inclosing the already narrow park with a private residence tract has been approved by city officials, or by South Side residents. But the Shaw's Garden trustees have held that they ought to get the revenue that was intended for the garden.

The city offered the trustees, in 1917, an annual rental of $12,000 for the strip. The trustees declined the offer. Then the city, through the City Plan Commission, specified the type of "villas" that should be built if the land were leased. The requirements made such that no one desired to lease the ground for "villa" purposes.

Recently, it was proposed that the city condemn the land. This proposal was before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment today, and the board decided that the condemnation price of the land would be $500,000 or so, and that the city had no money for that purpose. So the matter went over once more.

NEW CITY SOCIAL WORK JOBS

Supervisor, Ten Inspectors and Stenographer to Be Employed.

A supervisor of social work in city institutions, at $175 a month, ten social workers, at $124, and a stenographer at $107, will be employed by the city, under a provision approved today by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. There are now eight workers at $80 a month, without a supervisor. Under the new arrangement, the supervisor must be a graduate of a school of social economy, with two years' practical training in social work, and the workers must either be graduates of such an institution, or have had two years' experience.

The bill as first presented provided for paying the supervisor $250 a month.

A Grand Country, but Old Sod Calls Mother Keeley

So She's Leaving Her Six Boys in East St. Louis to Return to County Galway and Her Old Cronies of 62 Years.

It's a grand country, in the States, but Mrs. Mary Keeley, who came all the way from Ireland last July to spend the rest of her days with her six boys in East St. Louis, just couldn't make up her mind to stay. Yesterday she departed for New York, on her way back to the hills and bogs of her native County Galway, where the tang of the sea is always in the air, and the ways of the people are not strange to her.

Five or six months it was before Mrs. Keeley began to wonder what her old friends in Caltra, where she lived a matter of 62 years, were talking about without her there to hear. She would listen to the talk of Democrats and Republicans and the people of East St. Louis with a nod and a smile, and wonder in her heart if that Caltra boy was really doing so well since he left Caltra for the city of Galway.

Missed Her Old Cronies. She missed her old cronies most when she went to church. The good people of St. Elizabeth's took her right up—yesterday at the Corpus Christi mass they were asked to pray for her safe voyage—but back in the old place she knew everybody's father and grandfather, and she met everybody at church. She could tell Annie, who was about to marry a fine lad, exactly how her mother looked when she was married, and could ask Mary how that finger with the ring on it was doing since she tried the poultry.

Never at all did Mother Keeley tire of seeing the new things here, but always she wanted to see the old things. The States reminded her of "grand country," but it was not like Galway. Her six sons who had left her some of their nearly 30 years ago, to make their way in great America, were here, but two sons remained in Galway. So when she heard a number of acquaintances were to sail tomorrow from New York for Queenstown, among them the Rev. Father P. J. Byrne of East St. Louis, she decided that she would be a good time to seek the old sod.

Son Takes Her to Boat. No more on summer afternoons will Mother Keeley's prim, black-clad form, hale and hearty for all her 68 years, be seen in one of the rockers on William Keeley's big porch at 705 North Twenty-Third street. No longer will her blue eyes sparkle and her bright face glow at the sight of William and John and James and Andrew and Joseph and Patrick, all together with her daughters-in-law and 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild of a Sunday afternoon.

Andrew, who left Galway only nine years ago to join his brothers, contracting business here, and went back last year to bring his mother over, went to New York to see her safely on the boat. Frank and Thomas, the sons she lived with over there, will meet her at Queenstown. On the steamer she will be with new and old acquaintances, and within two weeks she will be back with her old friends to tell them all about "that grand country, the States."

Recapture Post Office Robber. By the Associated Press. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 20.—Floyd Chamber and Negil Thomas, youthful Texas post office robbers, who escaped from Government officers on a train near here yesterday after attacking a Deputy United States Marshal, were in the Parkersburg jail today. They were arrested by city detectives last night. When searched, the police said, the boys had in their possession two pistols and a $2000 diamond ring taken from the officers who were escorting them to the National Training School for Boys at Washington. The lads told the police they hid $500 in cash which they took from their guards.

HOLDUP MEN GET $700 AT UNION BISCUIT CO.

Three Robbers Intimidate 15 Employees and Take Part of Payroll.

Three armed robbers intimidated about 15 men and girls in the office of the Union Biscuit Co., Sixth and Carr streets, shortly before 2 p. m. today and stole about $700, half the payroll.

The cashier, W. J. Lekar, had left silver and $1 and $2 bills aggregating about $700, on his desk, and had left the office temporarily. An equal amount, the remainder of the payroll, was locked in a safe.

They asked Charles Postel, office manager, about the money. He couldn't enlighten them, so one of the robbers kicked him. Meanwhile, William Timpe, a watchman, in the rear of the building, fired a shot in the air through a Carr street door, to attract attention. This frightened the invaders and they ran out, speeding west in Carr street.

MAN, 81, FALLS FROM WINDOW

Daughter Says He Is Confirmed Sleepwalker.

John Schneider, 81 years old, fell from a rear window of his home, at 1817 Wyoming street, at 1:30 a. m. today, to a brick-paved alley 15 feet below. He is at city hospital today suffering with lacerations of the scalp, which physicians do not consider serious. According to Schneider's daughter, he is a confirmed sleepwalker, and she believes he stepped from the window while asleep. Schneider does not know how he was hurt. He is a retired blacksmith.

MOORE DEMANDS THAT NELSON GIVE VIEWS ON K. K. K.

St. Louisan, in Speech at Capital, Challenges Opponent for Nomination to Make Known Stand.

After restating his own opposition to the Ku Klux Klan a la a speech at Jefferson City last night, George H. Moore, of St. Louis, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, publicly asked that Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, of Buncheon, Cooper County, one of his opponents, outline his views of the Ku Klux Klan.

Dr. Nelson was making a speech at Kirkwood, at about the same time, in which he ignored the Klan as an issue and restricted himself to discussion of the financial condition of the nation, particularly farmers, taxation, roads, schools and law enforcement.

Dr. Nelson and his campaign manager, Joshua Barbee, departed from St. Louis late last night, without knowing that Moore had publicly addressed the Klan questions to Dr. Nelson. Moore's action had been anticipated, however, and Dr. Nelson said yesterday morning that he did not consider the Klan an issue and would not be forced into a discussion of it by Moore or anyone else.

Klan Denounced by Two.
Moore and former Judge Henry S. Priest, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, each have announced opposition to the Klan. Floyd E. Jacobs, of Kansas City, the other leading candidate for the same nomination, has not mentioned the Klan publicly. He was not requested by Moore to do so.

Questions addressed to Dr. Nelson by Moore were:
"If it be true that it is the policy of the Ku Klux Klan that government of the country is to be controlled exclusively by native-born, white, Protestant Gentiles, do you favor or oppose such policy?"

"Do you know of any Democratic klanman who is opposing you for the nomination?"

"Are you a member of the Klan or were you ever a member?"

"Doctor, did you ever attend meetings of the Klan?"

"What do you think about the Klan?"

"Introduced by Klan Leaders."
"I have found in my travels over Missouri the past month that Dr. Nelson has been escorted about and introduced in many instances by known Klan leaders," Moore said. "In view of the importance of this issue in this campaign, the people of Missouri have a right to know whether Dr. Nelson stands for the Klan or against the Klan."

"I find everywhere they want to hear his answer. Now, Doctor, they do not want to be told that you stand upon the Constitution of the United States and the State of Missouri. They want to be told whether you are for the Klan or against it."

"A good many of the people would, in addition, like to hear you state whether you were present at 'Carthage' last summer at the meeting addressed by the 'Imperial Wizard,' and whether you did not compliment this address as being a splendid statement of Americanism to which no true American could take exception."

Asked About Oath.

"There is also widespread curiosity as to whether or not you were present at a great mass meeting of klanmen at California, Mo., on July 29, 1933, and the people of Missouri would be glad to hear you give a specific answer as to whether or not you took an oath in the light of the fiery cross on that or any other occasion."

Moore asserted that if Dr. Nelson does not answer the questions asked that "public opinion will brand upon his brow the fiery cross of the Ku Klux Klan." He added that "no man can evade giving his position on the ground that it is not an issue."

Moore also attacked Dr. Nelson's campaign as a "real dirt farmer," asserting Nelson had suggested no program to help the farmer, except the simple expedient of electing Dr. Nelson to be Governor of Missouri. "He is deeply interested in the woes of the farmers, whether they will be able to meet their notes in the four Missouri banks in which he is interested," Moore said.

Aside from the Klan section of the Jefferson City speech by Moore, both candidates announced very similar views in their addresses last night.

Both asserted that financial depression of the farmer is working a great hardship and each suggested, as remedies that taxes be reduced by lowering the assessment on farm lands and that tariff be revised downward so that farmers may purchase commodities more cheaply.

Both favor a continuation of the State good road program, improvement in public schools as far as possible with available revenue and economy in State Government.

Law Enforcement.
Each devoted a part of his speech to declarations that they believe laws should be enforced. Moore said that in St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph, where the Police Boards are appointed by the Governor, he would select only men of known character, standing and experience, who would be in sympathy with a vigorous enforcement of criminal laws and who possess the force and courage to do so.

Dr. Nelson said "we all need respect for law deepened and strengthened. How can we expect the youth of the nation to respect law if men in high places flagrantly disregard it? Laws must be enforced upon the chicken thief and men in high places alike."
Dr. Nelson gave practically the same address yesterday afternoon before the St. Louis County Women's Democratic Club at Clayton. He visited about six communities in the county during the morning.

being escorted by Arthur V. Lashly, J. Porter Henry and several other county Democrats.

DRY GOODS MEN CLOSE CONVENTION

Delegates Discuss Changes in Store Management at Last Session of Meeting.

Prospective changes in methods and systems of retail store management, as discussed here during the four days' convention of the Controllers' Congress of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which closed at Hotel Statler, last evening, will result in vast economies and savings to be passed on to the ultimate consumer, it was the unanimous judgment of the several hundred departing delegates. The convention was pronounced the most profitable of these suggestions in the five years' history of the Congress.

Among the resolutions adopted at the closing session was one calling upon the parent body to investigate the fundamentals of store management, "to make a detached investigation and study of this subject to the end that a more efficient and economic plan of organization may be recommended to the retailers."

As typical of the scores of suggestions for economies in store management was one put forth at the closing session by a representative of a chain-store organization with 52 establishments throughout the United States. This was the introduction of the "blind invoice," which derives its name from the fact that the receiving clerk gets no duplicate invoice for a bill of goods, but must itemize the items as received. This elimination of inadvertent errors, as well as occasional dishonesty, had saved this firm many thousands of dollars, and the Congress thought so well of it as to authorize a special committee to study the plan during the coming year.

A large number of felicitous resolutions were adopted, but it was apparent the visitors were most pleased and impressed by the Municipal Opera, which they attended in a body Tuesday evening. Speakers at the annual banquet Wednesday evening referred to the opera as an "event," and the Municipal Theater an "institution," of which the delegates would proudly relate upon their return home.

GREER, FREED OF SHOOTING, ARRESTED ON DRY ACT CHARGE

Former Chauffeur for Mabel Normand Acquitted by Jury of 10 Women and 2 Men.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 29.—Horace A. Greer, former chauffeur for Mabel Normand, screen actress, was acquitted late yesterday in Superior Court on a charge of assault with intent to murder Courtland S. Dines, Denver oil operator, only to be immediately rearrested for an alleged violation of the Wright act, the state prohibition law.

The jury, composed of 10 women and two men, had just finished reading its verdict when police served Greer with a warrant in which he was accused of the alleged prohibition violation. The chauffeur will stand trial in police court.

AMERICANS IN RUSSIA TO STUDY HEALTH CONDITIONS

By the Associated Press. MOSCOW, June 29.—Four women workers representing an American sanitary commission were received yesterday by Dr. Smanshko, Commissar of Public Health, who outlined plans for acquainting them with health and sanitary institutions in Russia. After making a survey of the Moscow district they will visit the central areas of Russia, returning here in time for the all-Russian Congress of Health and Sanitary Organizations. They then will proceed to the Crimea and the Caucasus for a special study of hygienic conditions and health resorts there.

Four women—Lillian Wild, Elizabeth Farry, Lillian Hudson and Rosalind Zoglin—presented the Russian Ministry of Health with a large quantity of literature and films illustrating hygienic conditions.

PUT IN CELL AFTER CUTTING WRIST, MAN HANGS HIMSELF

St. Charles Police Say Fritz Griesser Drifted Into Town Yesterday From Chicago.

After attempting to kill himself by slashing his wrist with a safety razor blade, a man giving his name as Fritz Griesser, 50 years old, was arrested at St. Charles last night and placed in the holdover. This morning at 9 o'clock he hanged himself in a cell, using the belt of his trousers.

The jailer said the prisoner had been left unobserved for a few minutes. He was dead when found. He had tied one end of the belt to an upper bar and had borne down with all his weight.

Police said the man had drifted into town late yesterday afternoon from Chicago. In his pockets there were papers showing he had $150 life insurance with German benevolent societies there. He had $5.50 also.

U. S. DRY AGENT WITH POLICE RECORD FIRED

Dismissal of Thomas J. Harris of Field Force Ordered From Washington.

Dismissal of Thomas J. Harris from the prohibition enforcement field force here, to which he was appointed with the sanction of Gus O. Nations, chief of the force, has been ordered from Washington. Harris has a St. Louis police record of 36 arrests, with no convictions except on police court charges. The order of dismissal states that Harris falsified his record of application. Harris' discharge was recommended by the special intelligence unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue which has been investigating his case. The exact details of the falsifications found in his application for employment have not been made public. Harris joined the squad in February. He was reported to have had the recommendation of Frank Slater, Republican committeeman for the Seventeenth Ward. At various times previously Harris had served as a Deputy Constable and Deputy Marshal. Nations is soon to retire from the prohibition enforcement work, having become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General.

VAUCLAIR STOPS OFF IN CITY

Locomotive Works President Is On Way to Mexico.

Samuel M. Vauclair of Philadelphia, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and noted business optimist, stopped in St. Louis last evening on a journey to the City of Mexico. He was in Mexico in April, and the Mexican Government has purchased about 200 locomotives for the Government-controlled railroads. A party accompanied Vauclair, and Clarence H. Howard, president of the Commonwealth Steel Co., came as far as St. Louis with him. Vauclair expressed confidence in the stability and rapid development of Mexico, as the result of the policies of the Obregon administration.

Shoe Dealer Reports Holdup.

Solomon Ficus, shoe merchant of 710 High street, reported to policemen yesterday that a robber he described as wearing "new shoes" came into his place, held him up and took $49 from his pockets, then tied him with a cord and walked out.

CHEX

THE NEW AND PERFECT SKIN SOAP AND BODY DEODORANT

As a quick method of introducing CHEX—and to gather new ideas with which to promote its usefulness, these

Big Prizes in Gold are Offered Free

We Want An Advertising Slogan

We will pay in prizes $200.00 for it. Any one can compete. Contest closes July 1. Awards will be announced in Post-Dispatch July 27.
The three judges—Geo. B. Logan, former president City Club; C. Robt. Wolff, vice president Wolff-Wilson Drug Co.; Brent Williams, manager promotion and publicity, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
All Well-Known Citizens.
We have several good slogans, but our new product, CHEX, being the only thing of its kind—a toilet-bath soap and skin deodorant, all in one—we believe we should get some wonderful new idea that will aptly describe its pleasing virtues in a few words.

Think of a Better Slogan

Then any of the following. Send in your idea. Your selection of a slogan may win the First Prize of $100.00.

- CHEX Does More Than Soap.
- CHEX Checks Perspiration Odors.
- CHEX Heals Tender Chapped Hands.
- CHEX Prevents Foot Odors.
- CHEX Beautifies and Purifies the Skin.
- CHEX Makes the Scalp Healthy—the Hair Glossy.
- CHEX Overcomes Dandruff and Itching Scalp.
- CHEX Lathers Freely in Hard Water.
- CHEX is Best for Baby's Skin.
- CHEX Nothing Like It in 2000 Years.
- CHEX Destroys Odors and Leaves None.
- CHEX is Endorsed by Leading Physicians.
- CHEX is Guaranteed to Please, or Money Back.

How To Win:

Purchase CHEX to take the place of ordinary toilet and bath soap—(drug and department stores sell CHEX). Use it a few days, then you will know what a super necessity it is. You will know how much more delightful it is to use than ordinary soap. Then solve the Rubus Puzzle and write a sentence telling why you like CHEX.
You can compete in the Slogan Contest, omitting the answer to the Rubus Puzzle, if desired. Mail promptly if you enter both contests.
Each box of CHEX contains one pamphlet describing the uses and qualities of CHEX. You may send some good idea by reading it. Remember, a simple, catchy idea may afford the best slogan, and you have 20 prizes to compete for. The local judges will pass on all answers and award prizes, which will be paid by The Pioneer Products Co.

FLYING CLUB PLANS STUNTS TO ADVERTISE AERIAL CIRCUS

High-Speed Plane Will Fly Over City With Girl Standing on Wings.
The St. Louis Flying Club is planning a series of spectacular aerial stunts to advertise the club's air circus to be held at Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field on July 4. As yet no definite dates have been set for the stunts, but the club believes the exhibitions will be of a nature worth waiting for.

The first and most spectacular will be given some day during the noon hour. A stunt flyer, in a high-speed plane, with a woman standing on one of the wings, is going to run the gauntlet between downtown office buildings. Approaching from the north, he will speed by Hotel Statler, clear the top of the Central National Bank Building, at Seventh and Olive streets, by as scant a margin as possible—this will put him seven stories below the top of the Railway Exchange Building—fly over the top of the lower buildings between Olive and Chestnut streets, over the Courthouse, and on over the river.

All this time Miss Marie Meyer will be standing on one of the wings. This feat is said to be especially arduous because of the varied air currents between the buildings, but it is believed the high speed of the plane will overcome them. The pilot will be Charles L. Fowler.

On another day Fowler is going to loop the Free Bridge, going over the top on his back, and some other day he is going to loop and spin over the Mississippi River with Miss Meyer again standing on the wing.

Socialist Writer Is Given Parole.
By the Associated Press. Kan., June 20.—Linn A. E. Gale, publisher of a socialist magazine in New York during the World War who was convicted of desertion and uttering contemptuous language against the President of the United States was released Wednesday night from the disciplinary barracks.

Fort Leavenworth, on home parole. Gale's original sentence was seven years. It was reduced to five years by the specially appointed clemency board at its recent hearing here. Having served half of this sentence, Gale was eligible for home parole.

Her Friend Says:

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face and run-down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamins that make flesh, create appetite, build up the power to resist disease and chase away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff, and every day fewer people are taking it, for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, which Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Radler Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It's a wonderful upbuilding medicine for children, especially after sickness, and sixty tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days, and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

FOUR DIE FROM BOMB THROWN AT BANQUET

French Governor-General Escapes When Assassin Mistakes Another for Him.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, June 20.—The death list resulting from the attempt of an unknown Chinese to assassinate Governor-General Merle of French Indo-China at a banquet in Canton last night now stands at four: H. G. Gerin, a silk merchant, died today of injuries.

It has developed that the Governor-General probably owes his life to the fact that the would-be assassin mistook Gerin for him.

Just as the soup was being served, the Chinese, who was armed, appeared and flung a black handbag containing the explosive at the end of the table where Gerin was seated. In a moment the dining room was a shambles, with bodies and wounded persons on the floor, or, in the case of one of the dead, still seated at the table.

Dr. Casablanca, acting French Consul, had his left arm torn off. Three Chinese waiters were struck by flying fragments.

P. Demarets, Canton manager for the General Silk Importing Co. of New York and Mrs. Demarets were listed killed, as was E. Rougeau, chief of correspondence of the Banque de L'Indo-Chine, at Canton as the third member of the party slain by the bomb.

Pelletier is given as mortally wounded.

Five persons are named as seriously injured in the later advices, which add that several others were slightly injured.

Alarmed by the explosion and the cries of the survivors, American sailors from the gunboat Pampanga, British sailors and residents hurried to the scene, the first contingents arriving in time to chase the bomber toward the river. He fired several shots at his pursuers and plunged into the stream where all trace was lost.

Cuban Rail Strike Settled.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Cuba, June 20.—Full train service has been resumed on both the United Railways of Havana and the Cuba Railway, following the settlement of the general railway strike. Reports were that roads in other parts of the Republic also were operating. Half a dozen personal encounters between returning strikers and clerks who stayed at work or were hired during the strike, made continued military protection necessary at headquarters of the United Railways here.

ZR-3 MAY END FLIGHT TO U. S. AT PULITZER TROPHY RACE

Efforts Made to Have Giant Zeppelin, Being Built in Germany, Land at Dayton.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The fifth race for the Pulitzer trophy, to be held Oct. 2, 3 and 4, in Dayton, O., was sanctioned yesterday by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. This action, it is expected, will assure participation of aviators from several foreign countries. From reports received by the chamber, airplanes will compete at speeds approaching 200 miles an hour, or approximately a mile a minute faster than 24.68 miles per hour registered by Lieut. A. J. Williams, U. S. N., over the 124.27 mile triangular course last year at St. Louis.

According to the announcement of the sanction, the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, has taken steps which, it is hoped, will result in the flight to Dayton during the races of the great Zeppelin commercial airship being built at Friedrichshafen by the German Government to replace destroyed war material due the United States Government.

Present plans call for delivery of this ship, known as the ZR-3, to the naval air station, Lakehurst, N. J., late in the summer. Should delivery be postponed until the end of September, the ship could easily make the non-stop flight from Germany direct to the field at Dayton.

Technical direction of the Dayton races will be under the National Aeronautic Association, the body which represents in the United States, and the Federal Aeronautique Internationale, the international authority on races and record performances.

The program, in addition to the contest for the Pulitzer trophy, which carries $9000 prizes in Liberty bonds, includes a dozen events.

LETTER FOR 'LADY BEESFORD'

She Is Described as Visiting Monkey Cages at Zoo Daily. Supt. Vierheller of the Forest Park Zoo has received a letter from one Frieda Ruemler, mailed in Jugo-Slavia, asking him to deliver an inclosed letter to "Miss Lady Beesford." "Who is described as visiting the monkey cages in the Zoo daily.

Zoo authorities were unable to find the woman addressed, and asked the assistance of the Post-Dispatch. The request was addressed to the "Administration of the Zoological Gardens in St. Louis, Ill." The letter for Miss Beesford is bulky and sealed with wax. The addressee can obtain it from Vierheller at the Zoo office.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES—NOW CLEAR!

Soothing, Healing Mercier Wins Forceful Tribute From Philadelphia Man

MERCIER GUARANTEED. OR YOUR MONEY BACK!

"I went to my drug store to find out what was good for my face and skin, so the druggist told me about your wonderful Mercier Soap and Cream. I tried it. My face was covered with pimples and blackheads, but it is now clear. . . . No matter how long-standing or severe your skin disorder, Mercier will positively relieve it—promptly too.

Mercier is guaranteed to cure the worst cases. Thousands of times it has relieved and healed obstinate skin disorders and today it is positively guaranteed to help you—or your money will be refunded. Give Mercier the chance it deserves.

Not greasy, messy or showy. There is no greasiness to soil your linen—no odor to annoy, and only a flesh tint. Don't confuse Mercier with dark, greasy surface ointments. Mercier vanishes—penetrates to the true skin, acting on the nucleus of your trouble. No one knows you are using Mercier. It does not advertise your trouble. Mercier is not made by a patent medicine house. It is of entirely new composition, thoroughly developed by one of this country's oldest scientific institutions. It was tested, approved and is prescribed by many physicians.

At all drug stores on a money-back guarantee. Get Mercier today at any drug store—75 cents. Write for free booklet on the care of the skin and scalp. The L. D. Caulk Co., Millford, Del. We also recommend Mercier Soap.

Eptone

ANTISEPTIC

Personal Hygiene

Is greatly simplified by Eptone. It is the perfect personal deodorant. More than that, women appreciate its enormous germicidal power which is at the same time non-irritating, non-poisonous and non-staining. Eptone is free from the danger and disagreeable effect of mercuric or carbolic solutions. It will not inflame the tenderest membranes of the body—yet its antiseptic force is equal to any requirement.

INJURIES FATAL TO BOY HIT BY AUTO

Negro Child Dies From Fractured Skull After Being Struck Near Home.

Marshall Vaughn, 3 years old, a negro, died yesterday at city hospital No. 2 of a fractured skull, suffered Wednesday night when hit by an automobile near his home at 4245W St. Louis avenue. The driver, James Corcoran, 24, of 5321 Northland avenue, declared the boy ran across the street, darting from behind another car so that Corcoran could not see him in time to

Three Children Injured When Struck by Machines.

Three small children were hurt in automobile accidents yesterday. Gilbert Heller, 6, of 4508 Virginia avenue, was seriously injured at Virginia avenue and Neosho street when knocked down by a truck. Dora Pasanante, 5, of 1114 North Ninth street, was hit in front of her home and suffered injuries to her head. Joseph Speno, 4, of 1021 North street, suffered a fractured skull in front of his home.

Robert De Chant, 30, of 2628A Arsenal street, was badly cut in a collision between his truck and the automobile of William Weber, 2659A North Grand boulevard, at Glasgow avenue and Hebert street. De Chant's truck tipped against a lamp post and he was cut by lamp and windshield glass.

An automobile which did not stop collided with the motor cycle of Frank Detwanger, 15, of 4260 Junata street, at Arsenal street and Gustine avenue, at 7 a. m. today. Detwanger suffered a fractured skull and the police, with a license number supplied by a witness, are looking for the automobile.

Police searching for an automobile stolen from Jasper Maruca of 1110 Biddle street, were called to Bellefontaine and Larrimore roads yesterday, where the machine had overturned in a ditch. They were told that four men had crawled from the wrecked car and fled on foot.

An automobile containing three Scott Field soldiers was wrecked last night in a collision with another car at Michigan avenue and Arsenal street. The Scott Field car, which crashed through a fence into the yard of 3122 Arsenal street, is the property of Capt. E. W. Hill of Scott Field, and the police are holding the three soldiers until it is determined how they came in possession of the car. No one was hurt.

To avoid a collision with another automobile at Manchester and Berry roads yesterday, Miss P. L. Goddard of Kirkwood ran her car down a steep embankment and crashed into a telephone pole. The machine upset and Miss Goddard crawled out, unscathed.

MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED AFTER TAKING RIDE WITH PAIR

William N. Speights, 23 years old, of 4337 Lee avenue, found at 7300 North Broadway by policemen last night, said he had been assaulted and robbed of $200 by two men who had invited him for a ride in their Ford automobile when he met them downtown earlier in the evening.

They had driven him north into the county, he said, where they hit him on the head, robbed him and put him out. When he begged not to be deserted so far from a street car line, he said, they put him back in the machine and drove him to 7300 North Broadway where they again put him out. He suffered a lacerated scalp.

Burglar Takes Church Fans. A Burglar "jimmied" a rear door of the Fifth Church of Christ (Science), 3630 South Grand boulevard, yesterday, stealing two electric fans valued at $150 and leaving the "jimmy" behind.

MELLON IS CALLED IN TRIAL OF MEANS

Subpenas issued at New York for Secretary of Treasury and His Secretary.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Subpenas were issued today requiring the presence of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his secretary, Arthur Sixsmith, at the trial of Gaston B. Means and Elmer W. Jarnecke in Federal Court here next Tuesday.

Means, former agent of the Department of Justice, and Jarnecke, his secretary, are being tried before Federal Judge Wolverton and a jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law through the withdrawal of liquor.

The names of Mellon and Sixsmith were brought into the testimony on Wednesday by John W. Hubbard of Trenton, N. J. He testified that he had had an opportunity to buy whisky obtained through special Government connections from the Thompson Distillery warehouse at Brownsville, Pa. Through Frank D. Saupp, an automobile dealer, Hubbard said he had paid $15,000 to Charles W. Johnson, who was negotiating directly with Means.

Said He Talked to Mellon.
Hubbard testified that the plan failed and that he did not get his money back. He said he then had lunch with Sixsmith, who urged him to complain to Secretary Mellon. He said he did so, telling Mellon of the part played by Means in the attempted transaction. The Secretary replied, Hubbard said, that he was "surprised that a Government agent would do anything like that." At Mellon's suggestion, the witness said, affidavits to charges were made before Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair.

The Government rested its case against Means and Jarnecke. Special Prosecutor Todd had called as witnesses three telephone operators who identified slips covering phone calls by Jarnecke to Means from a Pittsburgh hotel to one in this city.

After Judge Wolverton had denied a motion to dismiss the indictment, Attorney Felder made his opening address, asserting that he expected to prove that all the acts attributed to Means and Jarnecke were in the line of their duty as Department of Justice investigators, and that the indictment of Means and his dismissal from the Government's service was instigated by a high Government official.

"We expect to show," Felder said, "that gigantic liquor violations were uncovered by them in this country and that some of the most distinguished men in this country were connected either directly or indirectly with these violations."

Tells of Money Payments.
Protection against Government interference and permits for the withdrawal of liquor were sought from Means because he had admitted he had "the Department of Justice and the White House in his pocket," Isadore Padov of Chicago testified yesterday.

Padov said he had paid $8000 to Jarnecke for whisky for the Valdon Drug Co., a patent medicine firm of Chicago, which was to be taken from the Thompson Distillery warehouse at Brownsville, Pa. He never saw the whisky and the money was not returned, he said.

The witness added that Means had taken him to the office of former Judge T. T. Ansberry, at one time representative in Congress from Ohio and enlisted his aid to obtain the withdrawals. He said he had brought brewers to see Means and he heard one ask Means who was paying money for protection but could not remember the reply.

Padov described himself as an "internal revenue broker" who, although not an attorney, was entitled to practice before the Treasury Department.

$15,000 for Whisky.
Charles H. Story, who is in the hotel business near Pittsburgh, said he had been given $15,000 by Frank D. Saupp of Pittsburgh, to give to Charles W. Johnson, former Uniontown (Pa.) distilleryman, as payment for 50 barrels of whisky which were to be taken from Brownsville, Pa. He said he had made arrangements for the trucking and delivery of the liquor.

Judge Miller to Resume Duties.
Calvin N. Miller, Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, expects to resume his duties tomorrow, after a three months' absence from court due to illness. Provisional Judge Groski announced Judge Miller's recovery from the bench today.

Big Game Hunter Sails From Nome for Arctic; Will Offer to Bring Marooned Men Back.

By the Associated Press.
NOME, Alaska, June 20.—Two plans were afoot today to rescue a colony which Harold Noice left on Wrangell Island, in the Arctic Ocean, north of Siberia, when he learned that an expedition led there in 1921 by Alan Crawford of Toronto had perished with the exception of Ada Blackjack, an Eskimo.

These two colonies were sent to Wrangell Island under the encouragement of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, an Arctic explorer, who has gone into inhospitable parts of Alaska with the announced intention of proving that they are good places to live. The Wrangell Island expeditions were designed to establish a British claim to the island.

Aboard the power schooner Herman, which left here yesterday for the Arctic, was Sydney Snow, an American big game hunter. Snow took a party of Eskimos. He stated that they would go to Wrangell Island this summer and that he would bring off all who wanted to come.

Carl Lomen, head of a local trading company, has been approached by representatives of Stefansson. It was learned. Under a tentative plan, a schooner belonging to his company, and making semimonthly mail trips between Nome and Kotzebue Sound, just north of Bering Strait, may slip over to Wrangell Island if ice conditions appear favorable.

Noice consisted of 13 Eskimos in charges of Charles Wells of Nome.

ALLEGED DRUG PEDDLER TAKEN

Packages of Narcotics Seized in Shed at 1409 North Tenth.

Police were told yesterday there was "queer doings" in a shed at the rear of 1409 North Tenth street. They were told a young man had apparently taken possession of the place unbeknown to the owner and for six days had visited the shed regularly numerous times a day. Each time, they were told, he would come out and hand something to men he took to the shed with him.

"He's been there 10 times today," Sergeant McGauley was told. Mc-Gauley took a stand nearby where he could see but not be seen. He saw the same thing as described occur and he arrested the visitor who gave his name as Harry Lanigan, 19 years old, and a Sullivan avenue address. In the shed the Sergeant reported finding 59 packages of two different kinds of narcotics. Lanigan was held for the Federal authorities.

Boil Clean

Don't rub your clothes. Just boil the dirt out by using Stauffer's, the soapless way of washing which leaves the clothes fresh and clean.
Guaranteed not to injure fine fabrics. Used successfully in St. Louis for 25 years.

Every grocer sells Stauffer's. One box of Stauffer's equals two of soap.
Over a million and a half bars sold in St. Louis last year.

Excellent for washing dishes, cleaning fine furniture, woodwork, floors, etc.

OPPORTUNITY OF THE DEMOCRATS DISCUSSED

J. Lionberger Davis Writes Letter to Delegates on Party Policies.

J. Lionberger Davis, chairman of the board of the Security National Bank Savings and Trust Co., has addressed the following open letter to the Democratic National Committee and the delegates to the National Democratic Convention:

"Rarely if ever has one of the major parties had an opportunity like the present to formulate a policy which is at once sound and timely and in harmony with the history and traditions of the party for nearly a century.

"We hear much from Republican and Democrat alike about concern for the average man and the good of the common people. General statements of good intentions and meaning well are of little help unless followed by straight thinking along fundamental economic and social lines and by courageous and vigorous action.

What Situation Is Today.

"What, therefore, is the situation which confronts America and Europe today? How is that situation being met across the sea and how can America intelligently and sympathetically do her part for the advantage of her own people and their neighbors overseas?

"Reaction and selfish nationalism have been tried in Germany, France and England. Extreme communism has been tried in Russia. In every case the theory of self-sufficiency and blind chauvinism has failed and failed pitifully. The liberal and radical (not destructive) forces have at last come into control and with the help of America's economic assistance should guide Europe toward peace and prosperity after the years of war with its aftermath of famine, disease, hatred and poverty.

"America has been benevolent. But has she been wise and just? The people of Europe need our economic and financial co-operation in order that they may reconstruct their social and economic life. Do our own people need such co-operation any less?

Should Help Own People.

"Let us look the facts squarely in the face and see if America, perhaps through the Democratic party, may not help her own people by aiding those across the sea. We are now the greatest creditor nation of the world. More than half of the world's gold is in our possession. Nearly every nation owes us money and most of our merchants and farmers who sell abroad must extend credits for what they sell. Is it not time, therefore, to realize that we prosper with our neighbors, never at their expense?

"After the Napoleonic wars Europe bought freely from England because England gave credits and bought freely in return. Economic barriers were found to impede trade and were removed. After our Civil War America bought freely from Europe for her own good and for the good of all with whom she did business.

"And now after the greatest of all wars, with Europe and England anxious and willing to buy what we have to sell, we permit tariff and economic barriers to remain and give wheat to starving Russians, milk to starving German and Austrian babies and build sheds for Greek refugees!

Quotes John Bright.

"Let us listen for a moment to John Bright, who said in England after our Civil War in 1864, in speaking of the misery caused by the corn laws (duties on food) and the restricted rights of suffrage: 'Now look, I beg of you, to this mass of misery. It is so great a mass that benevolence cannot reach it. If benevolence could do it, there would be no pauperism in England, for in no country do I believe that there is more benevolence than there is in the United Kingdom. But benevolence can touch scarcely the fringe of this vast disaster.'"

"It is not benevolence but justice that can deal with giant evils. It was not benevolence that gave the people bread 20 years ago, but it was justice embodied in the abolition of a cruel and a guilty law. But justice is impossible from a class. It is most certain and easy from a nation. . . . I am of the opinion that the rich people of a country, invested with power, and Burned So Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My mother had eczema which broke out in pimples on her scalp and itched and burned day and night. Her hair fell out and was dry and lifeless. It later broke out on her back and chest, and at night her back burned so that she lost many nights' sleep."

"She read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Soap and over a box of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Miss Helen Lee, Rt. 2, Centerville, So. Dak., Aug. 23, 1923.

HOW TO GET THIN

French Specialist Tells How to Lose Excess Fat Without Exercises, Habit Forming Drugs or Worthless Creams.

"If you are 10 to 100 pounds overweight you can easily and safely lose all that fat," says a French specialist. "For years I suffered with high blood pressure and heart trouble due to fifty pounds of excess fat. I was weak, short of breath and 'all in.' I could not find any clothes to fit me, and I was thoroughly disgusted with life until I found out about SAN-GRINA, a marvelous discovery. I knew that a great many fat men and women are going through these same troubles today. And, for their benefit, I am glad to explain what I did to reduce and how they can easily and gradually lose a few pounds each week without any danger. Go to any good drug store and get a package of SAN-GRINA. (Remember the name, and do not accept anything else, as nothing like this has ever before been offered to the American public.)

"SAN-GRINA, the formula of a French physician, has been used in Europe in private practice, where enormous prices have been paid for it. Simply take two tablets before each meal and watch your fat disappear. Once you have started to take SAN-GRINA, you should feel greater joy and energy. No more tired feeling. SAN-GRINA is guaranteed absolutely harmless, and positive to relieve you or your money is refunded. Remember that it is all I did to get rid of 50 pounds of unhealthy, ugly rolls of fat. I have not regained one pound since I stopped using SAN-GRINA. I look and feel years younger, and can sincerely recommend it to any fat man or woman."

SAN-GRINA is now sold at any of Speckart Bros. Stores, Draper Drug Store, Entelle Drug Store, Judge & Doherty Drug Store, or Otto's Drug Store.

PETITIONS FOR SPEEDING UP ROAD WORK TO BE PRESENTED Automobile Club Will Hand Secretary of State Papers Early Next Week.
Initiative petitions for a vote in the November election on revenue proposals for speeding up Missouri's road program will be presented to Secretary of State Becker early next week by officers of the Automobile Club of Missouri, members of which have circulated the petitions.
The petitions must have 5 per cent of two-thirds of the total vote cast for Supreme Judges at the previous election in each of the 16 congressional districts. Although the petitions now bear 60,000 names, more than 10,000 in excess of the number of signatures required, the number is not divided so that each district has the required
5 per cent of two-thirds. Matthew
F. Morse, manager of the Automobile Club, said today the necessary signatures would be obtained before Monday.
The initiative petition would provide for a gasoline tax of 2 cents a gallon; a 50 per cent increase in State automobile license fees, and the issuance of $15,000,000 of the $60,000,000 road bonds annually.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSSED

speaking generally for rich people alone, cannot sufficiently care for the multitude. . . . The rich find everything just as they like.
The country needs no reform.
But, I deny altogether that the rich alone are qualified to legislate for the poor, any more than that the poor alone would be qualified to legislate for the rich.
"Edouard Herriot, the new Premier of France, has just said: 'It is good to succor orphans; it is a fine thing to leave to their fathers.
More, far more, than any political duty is the moral duty which calls us to join forces.'
"The League of Nations will be reformed. But is necessary to reform it from within, not attack it from without. I look forward to the day when the democratic people of America will say to the democrats of France: 'We are here!'
Question of Stresemann.
"Gustav Stresemann, former Chancellor and now Minister of Foreign Affairs in Germany, asks:
"Is it to be regarded as a law of nature that one-half of mankind shall be hungry while the other half is unable to dispose profitably of its surplus?"
"Much as the Republicans will prate about prosperity—the full dinner pail—and the protection of infant industries and loud as their protestations of solicitude for the farmers may be, the fact remains that farmer and worker (both of brain and brawn) are alike suffering from world-wide economic maladjustments which it is the providence of statesmanship to approach from a reasonable point of view.
Appeals to Democrats.
"Has, therefore, the party of Jefferson, Cleveland and Wilson the brains, character and courage to reaffirm these great principles:
"1. Government by the whole people for the benefit of all, rich and poor alike.
"2. Equal economic as well as political opportunities for all our people and a willingness to co-operate with our neighbors overseas.
"3. The removal of such tariff and economic barriers as favor a class at the expense of the great mass of our people and which at the same time deny to those nations which owe us money a chance to pay with goods, which is all they have, and which our people want because of the high cost of living from which so many suffer today.
"4. Honesty and efficiency in government with a minimum of vexatious restrictions and as few burdensome taxes as possible.
Importance of Decision.
"If the Democratic party would go back to fundamentals and do some straight thinking and nominate men of understanding, vision, ideals and courage that old phrase:
"Equal opportunities for all, special privileges for none," might have a new meaning, a new hope and a great promise not only for our own people, but for the peoples who are struggling for their economic life after the devastation and death of war.
"Will you who guide the Democratic party at this time of crisis rise to the opportunity, or will you merely play petty politics and fiddle while the world's fate hangs in the balance?
"Your answer will make or break the Democratic party; but more than that, America's opportunity to make her greatest contribution to the world may depend on your decision."

SENATOR AND SURGEON IN FIGHT ON LINKS

Robinson Said to Have Felled Washington Doctor, Following Sharp Words.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Two versions were given today of a fist fight between Senator Joseph T.
Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the Senate, and Dr. James F. Mitchell, surgeon, which occurred yesterday on the golf links of the Chevy Chase Club.

The clash was brief and in its course Mitchell was struck once and fell to the ground.
Senators Thomas J. Walsh, Montana; Andrius Jones, New Mexico, and John B. Kendrick of Wyoming were playing with Robinson, while Edward Clifford, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and his son accompanied Mitchell.

Follows Hunt for Ball.
Those who took the part of Robinson said the trouble occurred after the Mitchell party had been held up from coming through the green on the twelfth hole, on which the senatorial foursome was playing. At that time Walsh was searching for a lost ball. A member of the Mitchell party, it was said, called for permission to pass through and it was granted. On the way to the next tee, it was added, some sharp words were passed on the subject of golf etiquette.

When the thirteenth tee was reached the feeling had progressed to such an extent that the two men came to blows.

Clifford's version was that the three some, in which he was playing, was held up too much by the four ahead, and that he had stepped up to tell Kendrick that no offense had been intended, when Robinson and Dr. Mitchell came together. He added that he held Mitchell while Walsh took charge of Robinson when it became necessary to separate the combatants. Play then continued.

Walsh Regrets Incident.
There was a disagreement over the incidents immediately preceding the actual clash. Some of the witnesses said Mitchell had made a remark when play was about to be resumed and the argument was about to be settled peacefully.
Mitchell's friends said this was not the case. Clifford was quoted as having said that Robinson complained that the three some's conduct had been "insolent."
Mitchell last night said he had no comment to make, while Robinson said, "I was to be regretted." At the club offices it was said two reports of the encounter had reached the officials.

JEERS 'AND GROANS GREET MAYOR'S CONVICTION BY JURY

More Than 50 Women Weep When Long Island Executive Is Found Guilty of Misusing Funds.

By the Associated Press.
MINEOLA, N. Y., June 20.—
Mayor William H. Reynolds and City Treasurer John Gracy of Long Beach were found guilty of misusing city funds by a Supreme Court jury late yesterday.

Justice Crosby remanded both defendants to jail without bail and announced that he later would fix date for sentence.

Reynolds and Gracy were the first defendants to be tried as a result of the extraordinary grand jury investigation ordered by Gov.
Smith after complaints of alleged irregularities in the conduct of public affairs in Nassau County.

Four counts were contained in the indictment against Reynolds and Gracy. They were accused of reimbursing a contracting firm for a loss of $19,360 resulting from the purchase of $484,000 worth of special assessment bonds of the City of Long Beach. The $19,360 represented the loss of the firm in selling the bonds below par.

Mrs. Gracy, who was in the corridor of the courthouse when she learned of the verdict, became hysterical and was taken away in an ambulance. Mrs. J. C. Van Slicen, wife of a Supreme Court Justice, and sister of Mrs. Gracy, became hysterical and could not be calmed for 15 minutes. The corridors were swarming with Long Beach and Nassau factional adherents when the jury brought in its verdict.
When the word "guilty" flashed through the crowd, jeers and groans rose to an uproar and many fashionably dressed women look part in the demonstration.

The hysteria became contagious and more than 50 women began to cry and denounce the verdict.
The tense feeling increased when Herman Wood of Long Beach, politically opposed to Reynolds, was arrested and charged with assault on Miss Anna Lawler, Reynolds's secretary. She accused him of striking her on the head as she went down the courthouse steps to aid Mrs. Gracy and Mrs. Van Sliclen.

HERRIOT GIVEN CONFIDENCE VOTE IN LIVELY SESSION

Chamber of Deputies Approves Government's Declaration by a Majority of 79.

BODY IN TURMOIL OVER QUESTIONS

Senate Elects De Selves, Friend and Supporter of Poincare, to Its Presidency.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 20.—The Chamber of Deputies last night voted confidence in Premier Herriot in connection with the declaration of the new Government. The vote was 313 to 234, at the end of a lively session.

The sitting, which it was intended to adjourn early to a new M. Herriot to prepare for his London visit, was dragged out by a heated discussion as to whether Alcega-Loraine had been treated exactly the same as France on religious questions and by disputes which kept the ushers busy preventing members from coming to blows.

Herriot's majority was large enough to be of some consolation for his reverse in the Senate, when his candidate for the presidency of that body, M. Bienvenu-Martin, was defeated by Justin de Selves by 17 votes.

First Fights Threatened.
Debate on the declaration of the new Government aroused a disturbance. Only a suspension of the session prevented it from degenerating into a physical clash between members of the majority and the minority.

Maurice Bokanowski, former Minister of Marine, reminded the Government that the Chamber of Deputies had succeeded in balancing the budget despite the opposition of M. Herriot, the new Premier, and his friends.

Bokanowski wanted to know whether the new Government intended to maintain the taxes against which its friends had voted. Members of the majority were greatly excited by his arguments and interrupted him continually.

When Yves Le Troquer, former Minister of Public Works, declared that the occupation of the Ruhr had netted a clear profit above the expenses of occupation, amounting to a billion francs from January, 1923, to April, 1924, the excitement rose to fever heat.

When Herriot rose to reply to the interpellators, interruptions began on the minority side of the house, and trouble ensued almost immediately. Replying to an interruption by General De Saint-Jour, the socialist deputy, Maurice Bokanowski, Minister of Colonies, cried out: "Generals are assassins! Shut up!"

Members of the Center and Right crowded around the new Minister of War, General Nollet, shouting "Nollet, Nollet, Nollet" and rushing to the right and left, and then to one another, while the ushers exerted themselves to keep the angry deputies apart, until the president of the chamber was able to suspend the session.

Senate Elects a President.
The election of the President of the Senate, who ranks second only to the President of the Republic, is not generally run on strict party lines, the personal popularity of the candidate being allowed to influence the votes, so the supporters of the new ministry argue that it suffered direct defeat in the election of Justin de Selves yesterday over M. Bienvenu-Martin. The opposition, however, will claim a victory, as de Selves found his voters among the friends of former Premier Poincare, while Bienvenu-Martin was supported by the followers of Premier Herriot.

The new President of the Senate is a nephew of the late Charles Freycinet, eminent French statesman, and the day of his election was his seventy-sixth birthday. He served with distinction in the war of 1870 and has since held many public offices, including the prefecture of the department of the Seine and the Ministry of the Interior in M. Poincare's short-lived Cabinet.

Bonus Blanks Are Sent Out.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Distribution of application blanks for admission World War service commission provided for in the soldier bonus act has been started by Major-General Robert C. Davis, Adjutant-General of the army, and will be completed by June 28. The distribution consists of 6,000,000 blank application forms and is made possible through co-operation of American Legion posts, Red Cross chapters, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Disabled American Veterans' Organization.

Two-Thirds Rule Devised by Jackson to Keep Calhoun From Third Term as Vice President

It Dates to First Democratic National Convention, Shut Van Buren Out of Third Nomination and Beat Clark.

THE two-thirds rule, in Democratic national conventions, is not so old as the Democratic party, but it is as old as the convention system.

The first national convention of the Democratic party was that held in 1822, at Baltimore. Before that, presidential candidates had been named by congressional caucuses and State Legislatures.

Andrew Jackson, then serving his first term in the presidency, was endorsed by so many State Legislatures as the Democratic nominee in 1822. The national convention was called chiefly to choose a candidate for Vice President.

Jackson wanted Martin Van Buren to be his running mate, and he desired particularly to remove John C. Calhoun, whom he had come to distrust and even to hate, from the succession. Calhoun had been Vice President two terms, and another election as Vice President might mean his nomination for the presidency in 1836.

Rule Without Precedent.
Jackson is said to have concluded that a two-thirds rule would work in favor of Van Buren and against Calhoun. The Democratic convention adopted such a rule, believed to have come from the White House, and stating that "two-thirds of the whole number of votes in the convention shall be necessary to constitute a choice."

The convention then ratified the nomination of Jackson, and nominated Van Buren more easily than had been expected. Jackson's marked favor having won the needed support for the New York politician.

The two-thirds rule had no precedent, so far as is known, in state conventions, and it has never become the rule of Democratic state gatherings. It is a peculiar institution of the Democratic national convention and other parties have not borrowed it.

The second Democratic national convention was held in Baltimore in 1825, the year before that of the election of Jackson's successor. It is recorded that an attempt was made to set aside the two-thirds rule, but this attempt was unsuccessful. Van Buren was nominated for President.

Van Buren's re-nomination, in the Baltimore convention of 1825, was made unanimously, so that the two-thirds rule did not attract much attention. But in 1844, again much attention. Van Buren kept Van Buren from obtaining a third nomination. He had served but one term in the presidency, having been defeated by Harrison in 1840.

Rule Beat Van Buren.
On the first ballot, Van Buren had 151 votes, Lewis Cass 83, and other candidates 37, giving Van Buren a majority of 31. But on subsequent ballots Cass went ahead of Van Buren, and on the eighth ballot James K. Polk took part of Cass' support. Polk was nominated on the ninth ballot.

The nomination of Cass, at Baltimore in 1848, was on the fifth ballot. But in 1852, at Baltimore, it took 49 ballots to nominate Franklin Pierce, and in 1856, at Cincinnati, the nomination of James Buchanan was on the seventeenth ballot.

In the historic Charleston convention of 1860, Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois received a majority on several ballots, but the two-thirds rule prevented any nomination being made, and the convention adjourned without a nomination, to be followed by the Baltimore National Convention, which nominated Douglas and the other, John C. Breckinridge.

The two-thirds rule remained in force, and excited occasional discussion, in the conventions of the half-century after the Civil War. But in 1912, at Baltimore, it again became a determining factor, preventing the success of Champ Clark of Missouri, who had a majority on several ballots, and leading finally to the nomination of Woodrow Wilson on the 46th ballot.

ARMAMENT CUT IMPOSSIBLE, JAPANESE GENERAL ASSERTS
Yamanashi, Urging Military Education, Says America Is Enlarging Defense Service.

TOKIO, June 1.—Gen. Hanzo Yamanashi, Minister of War in the Cabinets of Hara, Takahashi and the late Admiral Kato, in an article in the newspaper Kokumin, declares if America called a second arms limitation conference "it will be nothing but a trick."

The general continued: "Limitation of land armaments is not the real tendency among the nations, despite all the talk about it. Look at America, for example. She is enlarging, not reducing, her national defense services."

"With these facts in mind, it is clear that real reduction of armaments is impossible. Our existing military training in connection with our educational system. The United States has what she calls citizens' training camps. Why then should Japan not encourage national military education?"

"America is a republic in government, form and democratic in administration, but her acts are nationalistic. More than once she has started the world by her nationalistic policies."

"The high authorities of the Japanese army are determined to urge on any new ministry adoption of a thorough system of national military education."

AMERICANS MAY ASSIST IN GERMAN COLONY PLAN
Dutch New Guinea to Be Leased for 75 Years for Exploitation on Percentage Basis.

(Copyright, 1924.)

AMSTERDAM, June 20.—An American business group is understood to be showing interest in the colonial scheme broached recently by Duke Adolf of Mecklenburg, brother of Holland's king, concerning the German Secretary of State. Under this scheme 30,000 Germans were to be granted a 75-year lease for exploration and exploitation of Dutch New Guinea, 10 per cent of the profits accruing from the development of the Dutch East Indies.

It seems rather likely that joint German-American action on the scheme will come about before long.

Fearful of international complications, the Dutch Government sees no reason why it should cause trouble with American participation.

DAVIS WILLING TO OBEY PARTY CALL

Says in Letter, However, That He Is Not Candidate for Nomination.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 19.—John W. Davis of West Virginia, former Ambassador to Great Britain, is not a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, but is willing to answer a call of the party to be its standard bearer, he has written friends here.

The letter was made public yesterday after a luncheon of a number of the friends of Davis who have been active here recently in organizing the John W. Davis for President Club. The letter was addressed to Robert L. Burch, secretary of the club, who had written the former Ambassador for a definition of his attitude toward the activity of his friends.

Text of Letter.
The letter of Davis said: "My Dear Mr. Burch: 'I have your very kind letter of March 23, and regret my delay in replying to it. Please believe that I sincerely appreciate your offer of support. If I were in any sense a candidate, I should be delighted to send to the club of which you speak a few words of greeting. I have been, however, in good faith, the position that I am not a candidate for the nomination, and that any decision to the contrary must come from the party and not from myself.'

"I only desire is that the party shall choose the man best calculated to lead it to success, for I agree with you in thinking that the national situation imperatively demands the return of the Democratic party to power."

"Elections turn, or to be turned, upon the question of confidence or want of confidence in those who have been entrusted with the administration of the Government."

"With the record of the last three years before me, it is conceivable that the people should voice their approval of those now in power."

Those attending the luncheon adopted resolutions against the adoption of the two-thirds rule in the Democratic National Convention and commending the public record of Davis.

Finds Much Davis Sentiment.
Burch said after the meeting that he had been in touch with Democratic leaders in various States the last three weeks.

"We have found much Davis sentiment," he said. "We are confident that the first round of favorite son balloting, Mr. Davis will come forward as a strong candidate before the entire convention. We have canvassed the entire Illinois delegation and are sure a majority will turn to Mr. Davis when he is recognized as a bona fide candidate for the nomination."

Mr. Brennan (George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic chieftain), is strong for Mr. Davis and no doubt will turn to him after the first few ballots.

In setting forth the political aspects seen in the character and record of Davis, the meeting declared in a resolution that "no one has been criticized anything he has ever done, or attributed to him any shortcomings."

Text of Resolutions.
The text of the resolution follows: "That Democrats want to win the election and not make a perfidious race. To do this they must put at the head of the ticket a man of proven ability along the high plane of public service, who has guaranteed fitness for the presidency, backed by a career character and reputation that give assurance that the candidate is not open to any just criticism or attack; and that he will, if elected, fulfill the duties of that great office in accordance with the standard set by our ablest and best Presidents."

"No one whose name has been brought forward so entirely meets these requirements as the Hon. John W. Davis. He has performed public services of great distinction. Throughout his career there has never been the remotest suggestion questioning his integrity, straightforwardness, ability, and the high character and the success of his services."

No Shortcomings Found.
"On the contrary, private citizens, the press and public men of both great parties bear unqualified testimony to his ideals and achievements. No one has dared anything he has ever done or traced to him any shortcomings."

"The people of the United States want the best guaranty of future action, let them look at the open book of what Mr. Davis has done. If he has shown meanness, littleness, paltering with honor, shrinking from the test that demands courage, shrink from approaching the line of dishonor, and yet staying within the letter of the law; if he has failed to respond to the highest demand of any office he has ever held and disappointed American people with just expectations, then let them

Democratic Presidential Possibilities ALFRED E. SMITH OF NEW YORK

Of Lowly Birth, He Was Newsboy and Worked in Fish Stall and Factory Before Entering Politics.

The Post-Dispatch is presenting a series of personal sketches of the possibilities of the Democratic presidential nomination. This is the fifth of the series.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Alfred E. Smith will have, in the New York convention, whatever advantage comes from local popularity and local support. It would seem that this advantage ought to be considerable.

Alfred E. Smith furnishes a notable example of the use of opportunity in a democracy. Of lowly birth, his father a truckman, his mother of humble family, both of them born and reared in lower New York when fashion had long deserted that district, and making their home there after they married, the boy was reared among the mass of plain people. The sidewalks of New York, in a district always crowded, gave him his impulses and guided his first aspirations; and the spirit of that kind of life, which is the spirit of the underdog, remained uppermost with him while his public career mounted higher and higher.

To all who associated with him in early life and to those who got to know him well later, he was "Al." Any other form of address would have been a misfit. His quick perceptions made him a leader in his school in respect to rank as a pupil, and equally in respect to sports, entertainments and diversions that called for high vitality and for a cheery outlook on human relations.

New York City has never been backward about offering its views and its ideas to the rest of the country. New York will not take a neutral attitude now, merely because other candidates and delegates are its guests. Rather, it will perform what it will consider the duty of letting its guests know the merits of "Al" Smith, native of New York City, and now for the second time Governor of the State.

One native of New York City has been President. But Theodore Roosevelt was of the aristocracy, and his birthplace was a mansion. In the speech of the time, those who hung on "Al" Smith's lips will find a tenement house almost under Brooklyn Bridge, and it was a tenement house when he was born there in December, 1873.

Was Newsboy, Worked in Fish Stall and Factory.
The elder Smith, a truck driver, died when Alfred was 13, and a year later the boy left the Catholic parish school which he had attended. From a newsboy, he became a helper in a Fulton Market fish stall, and he handled fish seven years before he went to work in a pump factory. At the same time, as an amateur entertainer in neighborhood and parish gatherings, he was developing a liking for the stage.

Katherine Dunne's parents did not want a "play-actor," or one who seemed likely to become such, as a son-in-law. But Smith and Miss Dunne were married anyway, and went to live in the Bronx.

The stage lost its chance of claiming "Al" Smith, when he began to see the attractions of politics. His first political job was as a notice-server for the Jury Commissioner. In 1902, he was elected to the Albany Assembly.

Smith said little, and listened and studied much, in his first three terms as assemblyman. He learned the game of legislation, and he learned State finance and budget making. In 1911 he became majority leader, and in 1913 he was elected speaker.

question him his future performance.
"Looking at his past they have every assurance for the future as to all the essentials for that great office. These moral and intellectual tests he unites a finished education with wide and accurate learning, a pleasing personality, charm of manner and graceful and eloquent speech."

Open to Reason.
"He is strong in his principles and unyielding on a point of honor, but his convictions on disputable questions are open to light and argument and he is not so obsessed by a sense of his own infallibility that discussion is foreclosed and wholesome counsel repelled. But a few who have been President have so much to commend them to the public admiration and confidence and so little on which criticism can be predicated."

"Ruggedness of character, directness in speech and action, honor and integrity are priceless jewels, but not less resplendent in the setting of culture and grace. There never has been a superfluity of admirable qualities for fulfilling the expectations and pride of the American people in those whom they put before the world as their highest representatives.

"Their own self-respect and the respect of the opinions of mankind should impel them at all times to choose those who will not only serve them best but who will win for the nation the confidence and admiration of other peoples."

In a letter made public in March, Davis indicated plainly that he would not seek the nomination, and said he would not abandon his law clients to get it. It had been suggested that he disassociate himself as counsel for various banking interests, including those of J. P. Morgan.

FRENCH SENATOR URGES START ON PAYMENTS TO AMERICA
Give Germany an Example, Says Member From Alsace, of Rectitude in Business.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 20.—Gen. Taufflieb, Senator from Alsace, believes France should hasten settlement of her debt to America. Writing in L'Information today, he declares: "Instead of persisting in our equivocal attitude of debtors' laziness in a hurry to settle their scores, we should without delay engage in pourparlers for payment. Our willingness to pay should manifest itself in tangible fashion, or starting an account in our budget for example, entitled 'reimbursement of our war debt to the United States,' which we would credit with certain sums, however small they might be."

"An accord being thus realized in principle, it is not doubtful that America would grant us the most benevolent modifications in payment for the future and a moratorium for the present. To France's priority and punctuality, America will always reply with generosity. Therefore, let us give the world, and Germany particularly, an example of our rectitude in business. We shall be that much stronger in exacting strict application of the experts' plan from Germany."

GOV. ALFRED E. SMITH.

with William R. Hearst, in order to gain a third nomination for the governorship in 1922. He was nominated by acclamation in the State Democratic convention, and his majority in the election was 385,532, an unprecedented lead.

Achievements of Smith's second term include: Creation of permanent State housing board, consolidation of State departments, reducing the number from 187 to 20; repeal of direct primary law, good roads legislation, and reform in method of administering canals, protection of State water-power rights, child welfare laws improved and codified, bond issues of $50,000,000 for State institutions and $50,000,000 for development of State parks, reduction of income and direct taxes, bond issue of $300,000,000 to eliminate railroad grade crossings, legislation giving New York City the right to construct, own and operate subways.

In appointments, while not taking a wholly nonpartisan attitude, he has selected Republicans in numerous cases, and has chosen for special tasks persons of no known political connection, such as Gen. Goethals, for State Fuel Administration.

Approval of Repeal of State Prohibition Law.
Gov. Smith's approval, more than a year ago, of the repeal of the Mullan-Gage act, the State prohibition law of New York, ended a heated discussion of several weeks, in the course of which public hearings were held. President Harding, in a letter made public after the Legislature had passed the repeal, urged that New York State should continue to "assume its part of the responsibility of maintaining the Constitution and the laws." Other spokes of the repeal as an act akin to secession from the Union. But Smith signed the repeal bill, and his popularity in New York City was thereby gained, thereby while some other sections of the country set him down as dangerously "wet."

The repeal of the State prohibition law stopped prosecution of liquor makers and sellers in State courts. It did not stop the police from making arrests in liquor cases and sending defendants to Federal courts. It did not make legal anything forbidden by the Volstead act. But it was denounced by the drys as a step in the program of the opponents of prohibition to sweep away dry legislation.

New York delegates voted for Gov. Smith for the presidential nomination at the 1920 convention in San Francisco. On April 15 last the Democratic State convention in Albany endorsed him for the 1924 nomination. In addressing the convention after it had taken this action, Gov. Smith said:

"If I were to tell you that I haven't heard anything on this particular subject for the last year, you wouldn't believe it, because it wouldn't be true. I have heard a great deal about it; but in the frankness that ought to exist among friends and comrades together, let me say this to you: I have done absolutely nothing about it, either inside or outside of the State, and I do not intend to do anything about it. The man who would not have an ambition for that office would have a dead heart. But I stand in exactly the position I stood in on the floor of the constitutional convention of 1915, when I said that the man who used one office and neglected it, to climb to a higher one, was not deserving of the one he had."

The fact that Smith is a member of the Catholic Church adds interest to his candidacy because of the popular belief that a Catholic cannot be elected President.

He refused to make an alliance with William R. Hearst, in order to gain a third nomination for the governorship in 1922. He was nominated by acclamation in the State Democratic convention, and his majority in the election was 385,532, an unprecedented lead.

Achievements of Smith's second term include: Creation of permanent State housing board, consolidation of State departments, reducing the number from 187 to 20; repeal of direct primary law, good roads legislation, and reform in method of administering canals, protection of State water-power rights, child welfare laws improved and codified, bond issues of $50,000,000 for State institutions and $50,000,000 for development of State parks, reduction of income and direct taxes, bond issue of $300,000,000 to eliminate railroad grade crossings, legislation giving New York City the right to construct, own and operate subways.

G. O. P. OLD GUARD PLANS TO HUMBLE CHAIRMAN BUTLER

Theory of Senators Is That if They Sulk Coolidge Will Listen to Reason.

COUNTING ON SLEEP TO STAY IN BAD MOOD

Recent White House Dinner a Tame Affair as an Opening Council of War.

By CHARLES MICHAELSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Old Guard has turned and is about to fight William M. Butler as dictator of the Republican party instead of quietly submitting to being run over by him as it had to do in Cleveland.

Wednesday night's olive branch dinner at the White House where Senators Lodge, Watson and Curtis—the three most conspicuous martyrs of the convention pogroms—were brought in to advise as to the conduct of the campaign, is regarded as a sign of weakening on the part of the President and today's talk is all in the direction of forcing Butler out of his despotism.

The Old Guard has an idea that when President Coolidge finds that the leaders who have so long and with frequent success guided the Republican party are doing no more in this campaign than they are obliged to, he will be inclined to listen to reason. They regard politics as a highly technical business and say that a novice can no more run a difficult campaign successfully than he could play chess with a master and hope to win.

They are counting on the moral effect of Coolidge's slump's grudge for they do not take the Secretary's statement that he will not resign as an unconditional submission to the Butler regime. It will be remembered that Sleep coupled with his statement the statement that he would be a member of the advisory committee "that will have the real management of the campaign."

As the Sleep interpretation of the relative functions of Butler and the advisory committee was circulated at the White House the senatorial group with which Sleep is affiliating expects something to come from him. Sleep is not the President's secretary because that sort of job is either necessary or congenial to him. He happens to be a millionaire and when he took the comparatively humble desk it was with the idea that he would graduate from it into the national chairman and thence if all went well into the Cabinet.

As a journeyman politician, the unnecessary vice presidential means and the alienation of so many skilled workmen at Cleveland irked him, and it would surprise nobody if his resignation, the rumor which is again current, showed up in the news before many days.

Pistol-Toting in the Old Style.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE been reading with some amusement the editorials on the carrying of concealed weapons, and read last night's editorial headed "Yes, We Have No Pistols." Why don't you instruct the people that if any citizen feels that it is the open season for getting highwaymen and he feels like bumping off a few every night, that he can carry a pistol? Section 3275 of our laws prohibits the carrying of any concealed weapon on or about the person; so, if a man or woman wants to carry a pistol, just stick it in their belt or waistband of their pants so that the pistol or any part of it is exposed to public view. This is legal. But be sure it is not entirely concealed, and don't carry it into any church, or where people are assembled for educational, political, literary or social purposes, or any school, or any courtroom, or to any election precinct, on any election day, or any public assemblage met for any lawful purpose. It cannot be carried in any of these places either concealed or exposed, and don't carry a deadly weapon while intoxicated, concealed or exposed. That is the law of Missouri, so if any citizen wishes to get a few crooks any night let him follow these precepts of the law and shoot all he pleases at the crook who holds him up, kill a couple of dozen every night and the holdup business will not be a popular sport among our gunmen. There were not any holdups in our Western country when men carried their guns in a belt exposed and the crooks could see that a man had his artillery handy. So, go to it, you sportsman, and give us results in the morning table and death notices.

Good Grounds for the Conviction.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DURING the past few weeks the Post-Dispatch and at least one other St. Louis daily have devoted a great deal of editorial matter to stating and restating the settled conviction that McAdoo hasn't a Chinaman's chance of obtaining the Democratic nomination for President; yet I have seen no space devoted to conclusive editorial proof that Coolidge has no chance for the Democratic nomination, though the papers must feel equally certain of this.

Such constant repetition of this theme cannot but remind one of the negro who walks trembling past the cemetery, repeating over and over to himself the settled conviction that "Dere ain't no seech thing as ghosts."

The Postal Salary Veto.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE partisan "Times" in an editorial in today's paper is trying to sidetrack the blame for the defeat of the postal salary legislation from the President to Congress.

Now, Congress has many sins to answer for, but this is not one of them. It had heeded the demand, which came from all parts of the land, from most of the leading papers, large civic bodies and thousands of leading citizens, and passed the bill by practically a unanimous vote. Some of these demands, like the one in the Detroit Free Press, Dec. 6, 1923, warned them of the condemnation of an indignant people if they failed to give justice to the underpaid postal worker. To quote further from this characteristic appeal: "This country wants to cut off every legitimately avoidable expenditure, but it cannot afford to grind the faces of those who serve it faithfully and well." Congress investigated and brought scores of witnesses from all parts of the country, who gave the strongest kind of evidence in support of the relief measure. But the President deliberately blocked this expression of the people's wishes and defiantly courted their blame, and that, too, for the flimsiest kind of reasons.

One of these reasons was that the high cost of living does not prevail so extensively outside of the large cities and industrial centers, and therefore the flat increase of a few hundred dollars was not justified. Why not apply this brilliant argument to all who work for Uncle Sam everywhere? Why not go a little further and say, "Since all do not have large families and therefore can live on much less than others, I favor a graduated scale, whereby those who are single or have only small families to support shall not get so much."

Another argument just as fallacious was that this bill did not provide for any additional revenue. Now, setting aside the answer that these bills do not contain such provisions, but leave it to the department to work out the necessary means, this defect, if defect it was, need not have been fatal, for here we have the President now devising ways and means to meet other bills for which no revenue was provided, and doing it, too, without any extra session of Congress. Where there is a will, you know, there can always be found a way.

"NICODEMUS."

KLAN OR ANTI-KLAN?

George H. Moore, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket, is doing good service in demanding that Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, one of his opponents, declare himself on the Klan issue.

In his Jefferson City speech Mr. Moore asked Dr. Nelson several questions, to which he seeks unequivocal answers. Mr. Moore bases his questions on reports that Dr. Nelson has been introduced by known klan members, and that he attended klan meetings. He quotes a statement of Dr. Nelson in reply to a question with regard to the Ku Klux Klan, "I don't want to discuss that question." Mr. Moore asked him whether he is for or against the klan; whether or not he is a member of the klan; whether or not he attended klan meetings at Carthage and California, or at other places.

Dr. Nelson is spending most of his time on the platform pleading the cause of the farmers along lines with which the state government has little or nothing to do. We agree that the farmers should have relief from the low prices of farm produce and the high prices of all other commodities. But this relief will have to come from the Federal Government in the main, whereas, the klan issue is emphatically a State issue as well as a Federal issue.

The question at issue in the matter of the klan is whether we shall have State and local governments controlled by a secret masked organization, designed to ostracize and proscribe citizens on account of race and religion. The objects of the organization violate the State as well as the Federal Constitution and are directly contrary to the principles underlying American institutions and American governments, local and Federal.

The question is whether the klan, through the support or complacency of political leaders, candidates and office holders, shall control party organizations and the State and Federal governments for its nefarious, un-American purposes, and thus strike a deadly blow at free, constitutional governments, under which the rights of all citizens are protected.

On this question every candidate should be brought to book. And it should be thoroughly understood that a refusal to answer is a confession of guilt. The candidate who declines to say whether or not he is against the klan, if he is not for the klan, is at least afraid to stand against it, and if he is elected to office will serve as its official tool.

We beg to remind Mr. Moore, however, that the question of sumptuary laws involved in prohibition is also a question affecting constitutional rights. He refuses to discuss that question. And there are others, such, for instance, as the child-labor amendment embodying further invasion of state functions and powers and the creation of another costly Federal bureau. The question of ratifying this amendment will come up before the next Legislature. So that every candidate should go on record with regard to that issue.

Cool with Coolidge and hot with Dawes will leave the wet to be supplied by the Democrats.

FROM FOOL'S PARADISE TO TYRANNY.

The League of Women Voters is unearthing some amazing facts about St. Louis citizenship. What ever the honesty and general virtue of that citizenship the figures show that an overwhelming majority of citizens have abandoned the prerogative for which the fathers fought and bled—the right to govern through elected representatives rather than to be governed by irresponsible power.

It is estimated that there are 515,179 persons in St. Louis eligible to vote. The greatest number ever registered (in 1920) was 315,015. At the special election on the constitutional amendments last February the registration had fallen off to 257,292. Only 51,230 votes were cast out of a possible registration of 515,179—less than a tenth! Deduct those who had a special interest to be served in either supporting or killing a proposition, and a still more insignificant number would be found to care whether the State government goes forward or goes to pot.

The League of Women Voters is performing a most

(From the Louisville Courier-Journal.)

Important service in arousing citizens to their obligations in the coming elections and the threatened loss of their liberties. If the people do not care for their government the plunderers do. Unless reclaimed it will become progressively worse in all units, local, State and national, until a fool's paradise of unprotected liberties becomes an actual, entrenched tyranny.

MR. HUGHES AND EXCLUSION.

Secretary Hughes has done the only thing with reference to Japanese exclusion which could be done in the discharge of his duty as a promoter of friendly international relations and guardian of American interests. In his note to the Mikado's Government he has made the best of a bad mess precipitated on his department by Congress.

There is no question of the right of Congress to enact exclusion. In terms as friendly as compatible with dignity the Secretary makes this assertion. He regrets that the gentleman's agreement was not permitted to stand, but since it was superseded by legislative act he protests that no offense was intended and reminds Japan of her own similar prerogative. The damage done by the exclusion clause was not a damage of interests, but, however unintended, a thrust at national pride. It was a damage to be healed only by a restoration of better feeling, and this Mr. Hughes undertook so far as it lay within the power of words and reason.

Japanese Government opinion, so far as expressed, has reacted favorably to the note. Local officials have been instructed to exercise a stricter control over anti-American demonstrations and to punish for crime and violence. The Tokio Chamber of Commerce will oppose the anti-American boycott for the perfectly practical reason that Japanese trade is more dependent on America than ours is on Japan.

The effect of the substitution of statutory exclusion for diplomatic agreement may not be as desirable as intended. The new law releases the Japanese Government from all responsibility in preventing emigration of its nationals to the United States and thereby opens the road for the landing of its people in countries contiguous to the United States, where they may use their own devices to jump the boundaries.

Max Greenburg, the alleged brains of the master train robbery of all time, may be cited as the valdicator of the Missouri school of coddling criminals.

CHILD VOLSTEAD VICTIMS.

Two boys and a girl, ranging from 12 to 13 years old, riding in an automobile at Olive Hill, Ky., were shot and probably fatally wounded by Volstead enforcement officers Sunday night.

The officers had a warrant for someone charged with transporting liquor. The automobile containing the children came along, and witnesses declare that pump guns, loaded with buckshot, were fired by the officers into the passing machine, on the assumption that it was the liquor runner's car.

It is not recorded that these law-enforcement officers even called to the occupants of the suspected automobile to stop. It appears to have been the perfectly natural thing for them to shoot first and find out whether their victims were rum runners or not afterwards. The passing car might have carried innocent women, high Government officials, church dignitaries, or anyone else. But the question of Volstead law enforcement made it imperative that someone must be shot. For the element back of that law has decreed that its evaders deserve the death penalty. And so the innocent die with the guilty. And for what? To enforce a sumptuary law based on false premises and an amendment that was injected into the Constitution by the bulldozing tactics of the Antislavery League.

How many more innocent lives must be taken before the people will rise and demand relief from the sumptuary tyranny? How much more crime, how many more murders due to prohibition, must we endure, in order that the Antislavery League may enjoy its triumph?

It was Thomas W. Marshall of Indiana, formerly Democratic Vice President, who said that "What the country needs is a good 5-cent cigar" and dubbed Congress "The Cave of the Winds." Someone suggests that he would make a fine candidate for President, and there is no doubt about it. We could ask people to "Laugh with Marshall." Imagine an age in which we each worked out on witticism apiece, and then compare that with merely keeping cool!

There are no hard times in the Northwest. We thought there were, but after reading a lengthy and learned editorial upon the subject in the New York Times we concluded that we had been deceived by mountebanks who hoped to loot the Treasury. We are very glad to learn that this is the case, since the psychology of belief that the wheat farmers are broke has seriously affected business throughout the West. The Times thinks that now the McNary-Haugen bill is done for, to be followed by a prompt jump of 10 cents in the price of wheat, we may expect to hear less about bankruptcy in the wheat states and more about the advisability of buying farm lands in them. It has already detected in eastern publications advertisements in which the western states deny the poverty attributed to them and which the Times thinks they all feigned as long as there was hope of Congress voting them a bounty. It points out that estimates of the wheat crop this year place it at about $3,000,000 bushels less than the crop of 1923, and it quotes an authority who predicts that before the election wheat will go to $1.25. This, of course, knocks the props from under Senator La Follette, who seems not to be getting the right dope from the West.

Sir: Prohibition has finally upset the think tank of the Christian Science Monitor, as witness the following anent Dr. Butler being branded a solipsist by one of his opponents in the prohibition debate:

But what an epithet that is for one college professor to hurl at another! Was it Dr. Johnson who reduced a Billingsgate fishwife to tears by calling her a "tetrahedral parallelepipedon?" "No one never called me such nasty names in the fish market before!" cried the outraged harridan. The higher learning indeed has controversial weapons denied to the mere journalist.

The credit of silencing the fish lady with mathematical obligations belongs to Daniel O'Connell and not to Dr. Johnson. The Monitor, same on most subjects, always flounders when it tackles prohibition.

Soviet Russia does not believe in efficiency, which she thinks comes to no good end. She has the Oriental point of view there, and is applying it in her calendar. The 12 months remain in the year, but the month is made up of six weeks of four workdays and one holiday each. The odd week of extra days left over at the end of the year are also holidays. If anybody asks you whether Russia is ever going to pay her war debts or not, show him this calendar.

WET DAYS IN EMINENCE, MO.

Sir: The article in your paper on the wet spring of 1877 causes me to recall that period in Eminence, Mo. I was running a little general store. All supplies were hauled over a rough Ozark mountain road from Salem, 50 miles north. The incessant rains had so filled Current River and Sinking that no goods were received for a month. There were 16 river crossings on that road. We had no mail for a month. Curtains at windows in our homes mildewed, and gardens were drowned out.

After about a month of rain, Hugh Ware sent word to a dozen of us that we were to attend a meeting in his office. He was County Clerk and the little village was grouped around the courthouse. After we had gathered, Hugh just kept on writing until somebody, Jim Orchard, the lawyer, or Charlie Seaman, the editor, said:

"Well, what's the meeting about?"

Hugh blotted his writing carefully, adjusted his tie, arose and said:

"Gentlemen, we are a self-contained community here, remote but happy. The rains continue, no provisions come in, but there is still a little sugar and coffee over at the store. The mill on Mahan's Creek continues to grind out enough corn meal for our needs, and it looks like we would outlive the bad weather.

"But, gentlemen, there is another and more serious phase of this situation. I have just been over at Marion's and I run a ramrod down into the last barrel of liquor. There is only about five inches left."

That was only Hugh's way of having a joke, however, for there was a moonshine still up on Hoss Holler, working away, rain or shine.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

N EARLY every four years some candidate comes to the Democratic convention with approximately half the votes in his vest pocket. The same candidate, through his managers, usually suggests about this time that the two-thirds rule be abrogated. The two-thirds rule, of course, makes it necessary for the candidate to get two-thirds of the total vote of the convention in order to be called by the name of candidate. Mr. McAdoo's managers in making their proposal to nominate their candidate by a majority vote, are following long-established pre-convention practice. But unless the Democrats of the present convention are a different sort from the Democrats of previous conventions, McAdoo will have to get his two-thirds or go down to defeat. As a matter of fact, the two-thirds rule is an essential part of national Democracy. Conventions as such, Democrats have learned, are only slightly different from mobs. Often a majority of the delegates are of the soft-headed sort. It is easy to stampede them to a candidate whose virtues are questionable. The two-thirds rule, based upon the belief that while half the delegates may be of the foolish sort, there is bound to be a residue of cooler minds. . . . Traditionally the Democratic party is the party of the individual. It seeks to guard the individual against the tyranny of the majority. The two-thirds rule in the convention is an expression of that tradition. Its abrogation would be a symptom of how far the Democratic party has deserted its ancient ideals and given itself over to current passions.

PROPAGANDA AND PATERNALISM.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

ILLUMINATING information of the intentions of jobholders is given in an appearing in the Sun this morning in reference to the campaign that is being waged in behalf of the child-labor amendment to the Constitution. It is stated that in this campaign, which is to be carried into several States in the interest of the child-labor amendment, Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, is representing the Federal Government. As a jobholder Mrs. Abbott's salary is paid by the taxpayers. Among those taxpayers are many who regard the child-labor amendment as an interference with the rights of the parents of children. But in spite of that fact the Bureau is given over to partisan propaganda. The taxpayers who are expected to the ratification of the child-labor amendment are placed in the position of employing an agitator to set at naught their convictions. The assigning of a Federal employee to engage in such a campaign is a piece of effrontery. . . . Why not let the jobholders at the tasks they are employed to perform and leave propaganda to such whining and eager creatures as have headquarters and corps of wage-slaves conveniently located in the national capital. A list of 14 such societies is given. . . . of these organizations is committed to paternalism, and hence is admirably fitted to promote the cause of the child-labor amendment. It is hardly fair to expect taxpayer opponents of paternalism to support their updoing.

JUNE CURRAN TO WED W. H. GROSS

Marriage of Marsulite Nolker and L. G. Hadley Jr.
Surprise to Society.

MR. FRANK W. CORLEY of 4305 McPherson avenue gave this afternoon at the Algonquin Country Club, honoring Miss Marie Wygant of Ithaca, N. Y., who is her guest, at which an announcement was made of the engagement of the hostess' sister, Miss June Curran, daughter of Con P. Curran of Normandy, and William H. Gross. The wedding will take place in July, and because of mourning in the Gross family, will be quiet, and guests limited to members of the two families. Mr. Gross will take his bride to Bucharest, Roumania, to reside. He has a bungalow in the American colony prepared for his bride. He is a representative of the Standard Oil Co.

Miss Curran was educated at the Sacred Heart convent at Maryville, Mo. He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gross of Normandy, and a brother of Sol W. Gross, who married Miss Curran's sister, Miss Abigail. During the war he served overseas as a lieutenant in the infantry.

Miss Curran wore an old-fashioned gown of yellow georgette crepe and lace at the party today, and carried a Colonial bouquet. Miss Rose Cronk, who will be maid of honor at the wedding, was in the receiving line with the hostess and other guests, and the announcement cards bearing a miniature ship and baggage, with news of the engagement in rhyme, were distributed by Anne Tierney, Margaret Corley and Joy Gross, nieces of the bride elect. Serving and assisting the hostess were Misses Joan Kennedy, Edwin Sanders, Con P. Curran Jr., Paul Kistner, Maurice Lonsay, Sol W. Gross, John L. Tierney and Miss Esther Troy. About 100 guests called between 4 and 6 o'clock.

An interesting wedding, the news of which will come as a surprise to society is that of Miss Marsulite Stewart Nolker, who makes her home with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary A. O'Neill, 4847 Lindell boulevard, and Leo G. Hadley Jr., son of Mr. Leo G. Hadley of 3247 Longfellow boulevard, which took place at 9 o'clock this morning at the St. Louis Cathedral. No published announcement had been made of the engagement and only friends of the couple knew of the wedding plans. Mr. J. J. Tannhauser performed the ceremony. Miss Alice Hadley, a sister of the bridegroom, and a debutante of a year ago, was maid of honor and Willis Hadley was best man. The bride wore white satin and quantities of rose point lace, fashioned into a graceful gown without sleeves. A tulle veil caught to her hair with a rose point coronet cascaded into a train and was weighted with orange blossoms. Miss Hadley's frock was of flesh tinted chiffon over a satin slip of the same shade, adorned with deep flouncing of sheer lace. She wore a small chiffon hat of the same shade of pale pink with a long echeur feather drooping to her shoulder at one side. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses, blue delphinium and baby's breath. The bride was escorted by the Sacred Heart convent, both in St. Louis and at Maryville. She did not make a formal debut but served as a maid of honor at the Velled Prophet ball last year.

Mr. Hadley is an alumnus of St. Mary's College in Kansas, and during the war he served as a lieutenant in the navy.

MISS TOINETTE WINTER.
HE Wedding of Miss Winter and Marly Hemp, son of Mrs. J. L. Hemp of 4273 Flora place, will take place Tuesday morning at St. Rose's Church, the Rev. Father McGinn officiating, and a wedding breakfast will follow at the home of Miss Winter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Denyven, 6145 Washington boulevard. The bride-to-be is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Winter, 5811 Bartmer avenue. Mr. Hemp and his bride will motor to Wisconsin on their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Denyven and their children have leased a cottage at Provincetown, Mass., and will depart next Thursday.

Social Items
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Niedringhaus of 4629 Pershing avenue, and their small son, will depart early in July for Minocqua, Wis., to spend warm season at the summer home of Mrs. Niedringhaus' father, the late Marion Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner of 1905 Argyle place, and their small son, will occupy the home of Mr. Werner's father, Louis Werner, 36 Westmoreland place, during the latter's absence in Wequetonsing, Mich.

Miss Elizabeth Foley, daughter of Mrs. William Foley of 4331 McPherson avenue, graduated this week from Wellesley College, and returned home last night. She will depart within a few days with her younger sister, Marion, for a girls' camp at Burt's Lake, Mich., where Miss Elizabeth will be a counsellor.

Miss Marguerite Bieblinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bieblinger of 5251 Westminster place, has returned from Bersheba Springs, Tenn., where she accompanied Mrs. Hugh M. French of the Washington Hotel. Mrs. French has a cottage there, and Miss Bieblinger has been her guest. The wedding of Miss Bieblinger and Edward E. Morris, son of H. W. Morris of Rochester, N. Y., will be an event of midsummer.

Dr. and Mrs. Fred F. Bailey of Polo drive sailed Wednesday on the Aquitania for Europe.

Miss Viola Bircher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bircher of Ferguson, will entertain a group of friends at a dance this evening in honor of her guest, Miss Lois Chamberlain of De Soto, Mo.

STEEL COMPANY GRADUATES
37 MEN FROM HIGH SCHOOL
Commencement Exercises Held at Granite City Plant With C. H. Howard Presiding.

The Commonwealth Steel Company's high school last night graduated 37 young men who were given certificates of the Granite City Board of Education indicating that they had completed the regular 4-year high school course while employed at the steel plant. Commencement exercises were held at the plant with a dinner at which Clarence H. Howard, president of the company presided, and W. F. Coolidge, principal of the Granite City High School and 70 employe-students of the Commonwealth school were guests.

The Commonwealth school was created several years ago by Howard. He arranged with the Granite City schools for educational facilities for his employes and provided sufficient free time so that those desirous of doing so could prepare themselves for college entrance. The 37 Commonwealth graduates have the same privileges as regular high school graduates.

PLAY FOR ICE FUND TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

"Three Live Ghosts" Will Be Presented at Empress Theater to Help Babies.

No matter what degree the outside temperature registers on the thermometer this evening, the Empress Theater will be cooled to a comfortable point by 1500 pounds of ice, donated by the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co., as their share toward making a success of the benefit performance of "Three Live Ghosts" for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Ice Fund. The curtain for the three-act comedy is scheduled to rise at 8:20 o'clock. The ticket sale which has been conducted through the Aeolian Co., 1004 Olive street, during the past week, indicates that the show will be well attended. Late-comers may secure seats at the theater box office this evening, at regular Empress prices. No war tax will be charged, as the proceeds are for charity.

The play is being produced by the 138th Infantry Dramatic Club by special arrangement with Samuel French, who controls the acting rights. It is a charming comedy, constructed with uncommon skill and abounds with clever lines and funny situations. It was first produced at the Greenwich Village Theater, New York, Sept. 29, 1920, and was one of the outstanding hits of the year. Last its phenomenal success was repeated when it toured the principal cities. Harry J. Scott is directing tonight's production, which is staged by O. D. Woodward of the Woodward Players, whose current season at the Grand-Olive playhouse ended last Saturday evening.

As has been stated, use of the Empress is being donated by owners of the theater, and attaches are contributing their services through the courtesy of their respective unions. Clay Holmes, superintendent, is supervising the electrical effects and Charles Weinheimer, property man, is directing the stage mechanics.

The cast of "Three Live Ghosts" includes Ray Fraser, Walter Hollinger, Julia Bird, Dick F. Dickroeger, Dorothy Davenport, Elmer Bird, W. F. Barnett, W. Beverly Jordan, George Foster, Mildred Lewis, Ernest Groh and Ralph Field.

HARVARD CONFERS 1486 DEGREES, BREAKS RECORD

List Includes Prominent American and English Elected Overseers.
By the Associated Press.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 20.—Harvard University at its two hundred and eighty-third commencement yesterday, conferred 1486 degrees and gave honorary degrees to several distinguished men in this country and England. The election of overseers resulted in the choice of the following: Charles Moore, Washington D. C.; Howard Elliott, New York; George R. Agassiz, Newport, R. I.; Roland W. Boyden, Beverly, Mass.; Frederick P. Cabot, Boston, all for full terms, and Bishop Charles L. Statter, Boston, and Frederick Roy Martin, New York, both for two-year terms.

The alumni association elected as directors Roswell P. Angier, New Haven, Conn.; George F. Baker Jr., New York, and Edward Mallinckrodt, St. Louis.

Owen D. Young, who assisted in framing the Dawes reparation plan and who was awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws, in an address to the alumni said that the question of what America should do in playing her part in the world's affairs was a great moral question.

"I object," he said, "to the method by which we are making that decision. I object to having the great moral question of what America should do confused by a discussion of the merits or faults of the machinery through which she would make that decision effective."

"Under the facts as they exist, I am not interested in going to the question of whether we shall join the League of Nations or whether we shall join the World Court or whether we shall make foreign loans, officially or unofficially, but I am interested in going to the question of whether or not we intend, by every reasonable means within our power, to aid in the restoration of the world, politically, economically, and morally."

ITALY TO HAVE AMBASSADORS

Mussolini Desires to Institute New Rank in Diplomacy.
By the Associated Press.
ROME, June 20.—The recent decision to raise the Italian legation in Argentina to the rank of an embassy, it is announced, was because of the desire of Premier Mussolini to institute for the first time the rank of Ambassador which has heretofore not existed in Italian diplomacy. Even the Italian representatives in Paris, London, Washington and other capitals have simply borne the title of Ministers Plenipotentiary. These rank as Ambassadors but do not have the actual titles.

Daily Mirror of Washington

By CLINTON W. GILBERT.

ALVIN COOLIDGE is the sure-gain for popular government if it is realized. Mr. Coolidge has given the country so far as a President can—for Congress is made up of weaker vessels—an instrument for the carrying out of one well-defined view of public policy. The country hasn't had one for 25 years.

Having seen Vice Presidents nominated by tired conventions in the "let us get somebody or other" second place and go home spirit, I thought that remained of his term in office. Then he wrote his annual message to Congress. He became interesting. He was willing to take sides. He was not one of these "on the one hand, on the other" fellows. He wasn't trying to get people off all shades of opinion to vote for him. He had the wit to see that people were divided on fundamental issues and that you couldn't be on both sides of the issues. He was going to make his party definitely conservative. If he had stood on his head on top of Washington Monument, he couldn't have done anything more novel. Mr. Coolidge began to emerge.

I have changed my mind about Mr. Coolidge several times since then, now feeling that he had not I thought there was, now seeing less, but without ever losing respect for that message, for his making the decision so many Republicans have wanted to make, but which no one before him with sufficient authority could dare to make. I thought when he hesitated over dismissing Attorney-General Daugherty that though he was indecisive on principles, he was indecisive in action. But that all seems remote now, and not specially important.

The important thing is that he has been consistent, that he has done thoroughly the job he started to do in his message. His veto of the bonus did not seem to me so significant. Almost any President could have vetoed that measure. More worth while was the message signing the tax bill. He pledged himself to work in favor of the reductions of taxes on larger incomes. He did not dodge that issue, but projected it into the campaign. He made the elements that are for him solidly for him. He may even have changed the psychology of this coming election. Instead of voting hysterically against something, this thing is embodied in the person of Mr. Coolidge or one of his opponents. I think that will be a big thing.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 20.—Right Hon. Sir Dighton Probyn, keeper of the privy purse and extra equerry to King Edward from 1901 to 1910, and since then comptroller to Queen Mother Alexandra, died today.

He was retired general officer, holding decorations for extended foreign service in India and China. He was 91 years old.

U. S.-French Treaties Recorded.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 20.—Official notification from Ambassador Herick at Paris that he had exchanged ratifications June 17, with the French Government, of the treaties regarding Togoland and the Cameroons, known as the B mandate treaties, has been received by the State Department.

The territories involved are former German colonial possessions now under French authority by mandate as provided in the Treaty of Versailles. Since the United States is not a party to that treaty nor a member of the League of Nations, it was necessary that American recognition of French authority in these territories be provided for in special treaties between the United States and France.

FEDERAL AGENTS HUNT GREENBERG IN HERRIN

Alleged Plotter of Train Robbery Said to Have Left St. Louis in Auto.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 20.—Government agents, in search for the four men still wanted in the $2,075,000 Roundout, Ill., mail robbery of June 12, have gone to Herrin, Ill., in the belief that Max Greenberg, St. Louis gangster, wanted as the man who planned the holdup, is hiding there.

According to Chief of Detectives Hughes, Greenberg left St. Louis in an automobile several days ago. A. E. Gerner, chief postal inspector, said a tip that Greenberg had gone to Herrin caused him to send officers there last night.

Meanwhile, Federal authorities went before the grand jury today with evidence against the missing suspects and the four men in custody to demand the indictment of 10 persons on a dozen different counts. Postal inspectors, detectives and the two women in custody, Mrs. Walter McComb and Louise Drake, who posed as the wife of Willie Newton, one of the four held, comprise the Government's witnesses.

$5000 in Jewelry Found.

A quantity of jewelry, including several diamond rings and watches valued at $5000, was found yesterday under a bridge at Channahon, Ill., and is believed to be part of a jewelry shipment taken by the robbers from the mail bags.

The grand jury will be asked to indict Carlo Fontana of Chicago and Willis, William and Joseph Newton, said to be from East St. Louis, all under arrest, and Greenberg, Ernest Fontana, Samuel Grant and "Blackie" Wilcox, at large, on charges of robbery of the mails with a dangerous weapon, robbery of the mails and conspiracy to rob the mails, each offense punishable by prison terms of from two to 25 years.

Walter McComb, in whose flat the Newtons were arrested, is charged with being an accessory, and James Murray, Chicago politician, released yesterday after friends had given bond for $250,000, are charged with having assisted in hiding the men.

Two More in Custody. James Morey and his wife, Catherine, were taken into custody today for questioning concerning the whereabouts of Samuel Grant, after postal inspectors learned that a telegram for him had been delivered at the Morey rooming house last night.

Both denied any knowledge of the telegram, and said Grant had not been stopping at their house. When informed of their denials, A. E. Gerner, chief postal office inspector, said he had positive information of the telegram and ordered Morey and his wife taken to his office.

Missing Cashier Is Captured.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 20.—William Emrich, former cashier of the Fidelity Investment Association who disappeared two years ago shortly before it was discovered there was a shortage of $22,500 in his books, was brought to Chicago yesterday from Washington. Emrich was arrested several days ago after he had been traced through a $10 deposit he left behind him in a local bank. When he wrote for his money the Washington police were notified.

DUNCAN McDONALD HEADS NEW THIRD PARTY TICKET; COMMUNISTS IN CONTROL

Farmer-Labor Convention Finally Captured by Foster and Ruthenberg, Who Put Their Platform Through.

By PAUL V. ANDERSON,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, June 23.—The "third party" convention came to an end yesterday with the communist forces in full, open and undisputed control. It had nominated Duncan McDonald of Illinois for the presidency and William Bouck of Washington state, for the vice presidency. But W. Z. Foster and C. E. Ruthenberg, the communist leaders, could have nominated Trotsky and James Eads. How they had chosen. There was nobody to oppose them.

Earlier in the afternoon W. J. Taylor of Nebraska had denounced the convention to its face as a communist gathering and had walked out of the hall followed by 30 farmers. Some time later they were followed by Frank Starkey, president of the St. Paul Trades and Labor Assembly, and a dozen more farmers.

What was left was a communist convention diluted only with a few Minnesota Farmer-Laborites, who seemed unable to realize what had happened, and were stunned when they were booed and hissed off the stage for seeking to modify the communist platform.

Mahoney Is Helpless.
William Mahoney, who had called the convention for the purpose of forming a new party that would nominate Senator Robert M. La Follette for the presidency and who had fancied himself the real power of the convention, fluttered helplessly around the stage and the press table, a pathetic figure, who buttonholed reporters to whisper, "This does not mean anything; we've already got our program adopted," while Foster and Ruthenberg from their seats in the rear of the hall dominated the proceedings with a word or a lifted finger.

Never in its closing and crucial stages was a Republican or a Democratic convention more completely under the control of its bosses than this one. Never did a Republican or a Democratic delegate hoot down his dissenters with more derisive unanimity, and never did a party machine function with more smoothness or move more ruthlessly to attain its objects, than did the Communist party machine in this case.

It was Cleveland all over again, and stranger of all to relate, here, too, it was La Follette's name which called forth the loudest hisses.

At Cleveland he was denounced as a radical; at St. Paul as a reactionary. There he was the foe of the present order of things; here he was the enemy of any sort of change.

Communist Tactics.
A strange race, this. Last week Bob Minor, the Communist, scrambled out of the press section in the Cleveland convention hall and pushed his way through a jeering throng to shake hands with Gov. Blaine, head of the Wisconsin delegation, which was being scorned. Yesterday the same Bob Minor stood on the platform here and applauded enthusiastically when Ruthenberg and Ben Gitlow denounced La Follette as the foe of the working classes and the friend of business.

The assertion of their power by Foster and Ruthenberg was not as sudden as it was dramatic. Since the convention opened Tuesday morning, observers were conscious of a gradual change, not only in the atmosphere and spirit, but actually in the personnel of the delegations. On the first day there were many farmers present. It really looked like the "Farmer-Labor-Progressive convention," which it was called.

ILLINOISAN NAMED FOR PRESIDENCY ON THIRD PARTY TICKET

But many of the farmers did not stay. Instead, new alien faces appeared. The speech of the convention grew more broken. The denunciation of La Follette grew more severe. Mahoney receded gradually into the background. Foster and Ruthenberg came to the fore.

Yesterday the committee on candidates brought in their report. The majority favored the nomination of candidates for the presidency and vice presidency. The minority recommended that the convention endorse La Follette if he should become a candidate. The majority report was received with cheers, but the minority report was booed loudly.

Corn-Knife Oratory.
After some discussion, a plain, elderly man arose in the Nebraska delegation and made his way to the front. His face was red and seamed, his thin hair uncombed. He wore no collar, and he carried his coat in one hand and his old black hat in the other. Years behind the plow and over the head he had given his shoulders a pronounced stoop. Laboriously he climbed the steps to the stage, deposited his hat on the top step, laid his hat on it, and addressed the convention in language that was homely and unadorned.

"Maybe I'm going to tramp on somebody's toes," he said, "but I want to say what I mean to say without calling people by their names. I came here because I thought this was a convention of farmers and laborers, and I thought we was going to form a Farmer-Labor party. We started wrong; we're going wrong, and we will never get anywhere. We will never form a Farmer-Labor party here out of the material we've got here."

"I mean to go back and tell the people in Nebraska that, when Bob La Follette comes to the convention, he will be denounced by communists, he spoke more truly than he could have dreamed. You call this a Farmer-Labor convention. There's mighty few farmers here, and all the laborers are those that are connected up with the communists' party." He pronounced communist with the accent on the second syllable.

Plans of Foster, and the Platform Adopted.
After McDonald and Bouck were nominated the national committee was instructed to negotiate with the Cleveland Conference for Progressive Political Action in an effort to have La Follette endorse the St. Paul convention. McDonald's candidacy is to be pressed only in the event that La Follette refuses the endorsement. The Senator previously had repudiated the St. Paul convention.

Foster announced that only unqualified approval by La Follette of the St. Paul action and submission to the campaign control of the new party's national committee would result in the withdrawal of McDonald.

"You say you won't endorse La Follette," he went on, "well, if I was La Follette I wouldn't want your endorsement, wouldn't have it as a gift. This is a Communist convention, no matter what you call it."

"I have no quarrel with you Communists. You may be earnest, and you may be right, but you haven't got a right to come here and grab this convention, and call yourselves a farmer-labor party. Why don't you fellows hold your own convention, and put your own platform before the American people? Are you ashamed of your own name? Can't you stand on your own principles?"

"I'm from Nebraska,"

"I'm from Nebraska, and there are five men in my delegation. One is a farmer, and the rest say they are representing the industrial workers of the State, and yet the Omaha Central Trades is not represented. I think Foster and Ruthenberg must have raked and scraped the corners of the earth to get this aggregation together. We have an organization inside of an organization here. You call this the Farmer-Labor party but it is run from the inside by the Communist party. I want to purge this Government of the curse of crooked politicians and big business. No Communist in here believes more than I do that Wall Street runs this Government, and none of you are more anxious to change that condition."

"But I'm not willing to change the form of our government, and that's what you fellows want. The truth is that you common people find yourselves between two extremes. On one side is big business crushing the life out of us and on the other side are you fellows wanted to overturn this Government and establish a soviet. I'm against both of you."

"The speaker gathered up his coat and hat, clambered down the stairs, and stumped up the aisle toward the exit, in the midst of a thick silence broken by a few hisses. Slowly 30 farmers made their way out of various sections, and quietly followed the Nebraska delegate outside the door and tried to remonstrate with him."

"Don't pester me," he replied, brushing the Communist aside. "You and me don't think alike and it's no use of arguing."

The Farmer Said It All.
That was the story of this convention. The old farmer had said about all there was to say about it. It was called by men who wanted to organize a national Farmer-Labor party, and nominate La Follette for the presidency. Those men made the tactical mistake of inviting the Workers' party, which is the Communist party in America, and the Federated Farmer-Labor party, which is a subsidiary of it. One of the chief methods employed by the Workers' party in extending its influence is to capture new movements and incorporate them into their own. In this case they were aided by the fact that many states failed to send delegations. Foster and Ruthenberg accordingly put their own men in as delegates from those states and got them accepted by a

Once Mahoney and the arrangements committee, which he actually did control, consented to let the Communists in at all, he had given Foster and Ruthenberg a foothold from which they proceeded, with the superior skill and experience in such matters, to get full control. They created an atmosphere which caused many conservative farmer and trade union delegates to leave the convention. It seems beyond doubt that the places of these were taken by Communists who had appeared on the scene. This was made possible by what appears to have been a deliberate loosening of the rules or procedure.

Communist Platform.
An example of the extent to which this went is the fact that on the nominations for the presidency and vice presidency, a Communist was not even called. The candidates were selected by aye and no votes. The platform brought in the day before by Joseph Monley, Foster's son-in-law, which provides for nationalization of virtually all wealth, and in essence, a Communist platform, was adopted with a whoop. A few straggling Minnesota delegates who had remained on the scene tried to protest against the sweeping character of the plank, but were hooted down.

The National Farmer-Labor party, they call the new organization. It is a subsidiary of the Communist party as completely as if it had been created by authority of the third international.

That it will play any serious part in the coming campaign is not credible. The people who have control of it have no interest in it as a party beyond the point where it serves as an aid to the party in which they are really interested. Whether La Follette actually knew when he repudiated the convention, that it would be controlled by communists to the degree that it was is difficult to say. But he will get the credit which accrues to a prophet whose prophecies are fulfilled.

Developments yesterday also included the uncovering of Foster's plan to split the Cleveland Conference for Progressive Political Action in Cleveland, unite with the bolting faction and go before the country as a solid party rather than part of a coalition.

McDonald's Acceptance.
"I expect now to be presented to the country as a Communist and a Red," said McDonald, accepting the nomination. "I am not a Communist and I am not a Red. I prefer this honor to being smeared in oil or to having the O. K. of Morgan and the others who name the candidates and dictate the policies of both old parties. But, if standing for fair Government and honesty and decency means radical, then class me as a radical."

"Russia crashed because the few controlled the many. We are facing a situation in America that is going to tax the ingenuity of the best minds if we are to arrive at a successful solution."

"Never before has organized wealth been so firmly entrenched as now. They not only have trusts, but combinations of trusts, and the entrenched interests control the national and state governments to protect their own interests. No nation ever survived after the few got control of the industries."

"In 1912," said McDonald, "there was a Socialist convention in London with representatives from London, France, Germany, Austria and Russia."

"Karl Hardie said then that 'something terrible is going to happen.' The armies of Germany were drilling. Belgium was ready to conscript men and England's fleet was massing in the north."

"Hardie, Journal of France, Liebknecht of Germany and others in the conference, pledged themselves to stand by each other. Hardie died of pneumonia as a result of his efforts to prevent war. Journal was assassinated in Paris, and Liebknecht was jailed, and later taken from behind the bars and assassinated."

Today the ideas expressed by the group in London and at St. Louis in this country are held all over the world. They are, in three words: 'No more war.'"

Praising the Industrial Workers of the World as a peace-loving, God-loving group of men, Brouck, the vice presidential nominee, in his address of acceptance added: "Wilson and Harding ruined the American farmers by cutting off foreign markets and if we continue to vote the capitalist ticket a little longer not only ourselves but our wives and children will have to take to the road for a living."

The bolting Minnesotans held an "indignation" meeting at the Labor Temple and decided to appeal to the Minnesota Farmer-Labor Federation to repudiate the convention.

Platform High Spots.
The platform, drawn up in part by the communists and presented to the convention Wednesday night, was adopted last night with but few changes. High spots in the platform included: Recognition of soviet Russia, nationalization of large industries, with participation in the management by workers, Government ownership of banks, public ownership of railroads and marketing institutions, compensation for the unemployed and employment of the unemployed on public works, such as road building and swamp reclamation, and a Federal minimum wage law for all workers.

One platform change was on the negro plank, which was altered to read to pledge the new party to "extend its struggle to free all toilers to include the political and economic emancipation of the negro workers and farmers."

Another change was to insert a plank advocated by the National Women's party and demanding "full political and economic equality for men and women."

The third change was insertion of a plank favoring enactment of a law providing employment for the unemployed on public works, road building, reclamation of swamps and reforestation.

Ku Klux Klan Condemned.
Some of the resolutions adopted near the close of the convention were: One condemning the Davis bill for finger-printing immigrants. Another urged immediate liberation of all political prisoners and those sentenced for criminal syndicalism and still another urging women to join trade unions and agricultural and economic organizations. A declaration condemning the Ku Klux Klan was offered while the states were caucusing on national committee members and declared adopted.

H. W. Bart, a member of the Executive Committee of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party, said in the convention: "This platform and the one adopted in our State convention are as different as day is from night. I fear the effect of this convention upon our campaign for re-election of Magnus Johnson."

Alexander Howat, Kansas, today was elected chairman of the national committee of the new Farmer-Labor party. The committee, controlled by communists, includes Foster and Ruthenberg of the Workers' party, C. A. Hathaway and Joseph Manley of the Federated Farmer-Labor party, Howat, McDonald, Bouck, Charles E. Taylor of Montana and William Mahoney and Louis Engstrom of Minnesota.

Presidential Candidate an Organized Labor Insurgent.
For many years Duncan McDonald, the presidential candidate, has been an insurgent in the ranks of organized labor. With Howat of Kansas and Maurer of Pennsylvania he has fought against the predominance of the Gompers group in the American Federation group, and frequently this has brought him into conflict with "official policies" of the Federation. He was an avowed Socialist prior to the World War.

At present he is the candidate of the Labor Party for the governorship of Illinois, having been chosen at a State convention held in Peoria in May in conjunction with the State convention of the United Mine Workers. Members of the Illinois delegation here said that his nomination for the presidency by this convention would result in the withdrawal of his candidacy for the governorship of Illinois on the Labor Party ticket.

Although of Scotch ancestry, McDonald was born in Ohio 52 years ago. When he was a baby his parents moved to Oglesby, Ill., and at the age of 12 he entered the coal mines. He displayed a talent for organization before he was 20 and was active in the formation of the United Mine Workers and was elected on the executive board of the Illinois District. At various times he held other offices in the mine workers' union, including membership on the international executive board, which he resigned on the ground that "it was a loafers' job."

He was elected president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor in 1918 and served a year. He joined the Farmer-Labor party about this time, surrendering his Socialist membership, and toured the Northwest in behalf of the Nonpartisan League.

He also was the founder and editor of a short-lived labor publication called the "Illinois Industrial Review." His occupation at this time is that of organizer for the Illinois Labor party.

McDonald has a distinguished appearance. His profile is strong and he has sharp black eyes. He is about six feet tall, straight and well proportioned. Physically he has great vigor. He looks more like a United States Senator than a coal miner, and his platform presence is marked by ease of speech and manner.

Get the Genuine Double-Thick Corn Flakes

Post Toasties stay crisp in milk or cream

Crispness! That's what makes corn flakes delicious; and that's why most people prefer Post Toasties.

Post Toasties you see, are double-thick corn flakes, made from the plump, nutritious hearts of selected white corn. They do not melt-up or become soggy in the cream.

Toasted to golden brown and expertly seasoned these double-thick flakes are packed in sealed, wax-wrapped cartons that hold the oven crispness in.

The coupon below is valuable. Send it in today. It is good for a generously large free package of Post Toasties. We want you to make the Milk or Cream Test at our expense.

How to Test Corn Flakes for Crispness!

When the Test Package arrives (or order a family size package from your grocer) pour some of the double-thick crisp flakes into a bowl. Then add milk or cream and eat the Post Toasties slowly. You will note that even the flakes at the bottom of bowl remain crisp and firm.

BOND SALESMAN IS SOUGHT

Woman Says She Gave Man $1000

Miss Caroline Meinhold, 5752 De Giverville avenue, asked the police today to look for a bond salesman to whom, she says, she surrendered a year and a half ago a $1000 bond and a $500 ring to be converted into cash, and who told her, she says, that he had sold them, but did not make an accounting to her.

In answer to her repeated demands, she says, he wrote and wired her that she would get her money, except when she threatened to bring suit, when he wrote that if she did that she would never get her money.

NEGRO POLICE ADMITTED TO RELIEF ASSOCIATION

Officers Who Have Been Barred Will Get Benefit Insurance From Organization

Nineteen of the 20 negro members of the police force are now members of the Police Relief Association, a mutual benefit insurance organization, to which all policemen are required to belong, but which the negro detectives and patrolmen have not been in. There was some antipathy to taking them in, it is said, although the association does not have meetings, functioning through its officers.

Early this year the 19 negroes applied for membership, but their applications were held up while the membership voted on three amendments to the by-laws, namely, raising the initiation fee from $10 to $15, increasing the payment in event of death of a policeman's wife from $100 to $300, and fixing the period for which members shall receive retirement benefits as the period of membership in the association rather than service in the department.

The association's attorney advised it that the negroes could not be barred and recently their applications were accepted. Some of the negro detectives have been on the force for 10 to 15 years, including one who is a Sergeant, but they have not been paying dues into the association, which explains one of the by-laws changes. The retirement benefit is $250 for each of five years of membership and $3000 is paid to the family of a policeman who dies.

Issues Injunction Against Brewery.

M'ADDOO'S HOLD ON THE MISSOURI VOTE DISPUTED

Backers of Other Candidates Express Belief That the Unit Rule Will Be Broken.

FIRST MEETING OF DELEGATES MONDAY

Missourians Expected to Organize at That Time and Decide on Manner of Balloting.

About half of the Missouri delegates to the Democratic National Convention were on the Goltra special train which with about 65 passengers departed for New York at 3 p. m. yesterday. Some of the delegates have gone singly and the remainder will start from St. Louis over the Pennsylvania at noon tomorrow.

Discussion of the probable hold upon the Missouri delegation of McAdoo, Smith, Davis and other leading candidates for the Democratic nomination for the presidency brought sharply conflicting claims. The McAdoo lieutenants assert that they have 20 votes, enough to sustain the unit rule and cast the entire 36 Missouri votes for McAdoo on the early ballots at least. Anti-McAdoo men make a contrary claim that 20 to 25 votes of delegates favoring Smith, Davis, Halston and others can be mustered to break the unit rule and enable each to vote for his choice.

View of Delegate Reeves.

Most of the delegates declined to talk for publication. One, Everett Reeves of Caruthersville, delegate from the Fourteenth District, was outspoken against a McAdoo domination of the Missouri group.

"I think it has been injudicious, if not presumptuous, for some of our party leaders in Missouri to attempt to commit the Missouri delegation to Mr. McAdoo in advance of a caucus of our delegation, in which every member should be free to act and vote as his own conscience dictates," said Reeves.

"It is unfair and not in conformity with the facts to assume that the Missouri delegation is morally or otherwise committed to the McAdoo candidacy as a result of the reputation of Senator Reed in this State. In that contest McAdoo was a candidate as well as Reed. McAdoo was able to get only about 50 votes instructed for him in the State convention, while Reed obtained about 400. Both, therefore, were repudiated by the voters, and as a result, no attempt was made in the State convention to instruct the delegates to the national convention for either Reed or McAdoo. It was anti-Reed (not pro-McAdoo) sentiment which overwhelmed Reed; and it was no less an anti-Reed sentiment which caused him to make such a sorry showing with the voters of this State. I believe that the great majority of Missouri Democrats in that contest took the view that I myself entertained. I was unalterably opposed to Reed but I then believed, and I now more firmly believe, that McAdoo is unavailable and impossible as the presidential nominee."

Meeting Probably Monday.

Outcome of controversies within the Missouri delegation cannot be foretold before meeting of the body in the blue room of the McAlpin Hotel in New York probably Monday morning. The delegation will organize at that time and may reach a decision on the unit rule. Whether it is imposed or set aside will depend upon whether the McAdoo managers have 19 votes or more, as supporters of the other candidates appear to want the rule set aside.

CHINESE INDORE BONDS FOR WIRELESS STATIONS

Peking Government Formally Orders Minister at Washington to Affix His Signature.

(Copyright, 1934.)

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1934.

PEKING, June 20.—The Federal Wireless Co.'s position is firmly established on account of the Chinese Government today having instructed Minister See at Washington to sign the bonds covering the cost of the erection of the wireless plants in China. The Federal Wireless representative informed the correspondent that all the bonds had been legally countersigned by the Chinese Government.

Minister See at first expressed a fear of complications and suggested that his signature be withheld, but the Ministry of Communication ordered him to sign immediately.

The bonds will not be put on the market, the Federal Wireless company retaining the whole issue. The Japanese are considerably perturbed, considering that the Chinese Government is attempting to violate the terms of its agreement. These Chinese are jubilant, considering the acceptance of these bonds as rehabilitation of their credit with America.

SMUTS DEFEAT ISSUE; SOUTH
REMAIN UNDE
Labor Party (British) and Nationalists (Dutch)
Unit to Unhorse Leader of the Stand-patters.

MOEFMONTFONTEIN, Union of South Africa, June 20.—General J. B. Hertzog, the national leader, who is expected to form a ministry in succession to the Smuts Cabinet as a result of the recent elections, emphasized the necessity for co-operation between the two principal races (British and Dutch) which make up the population of the Union in an address here today.

He declared he had always worked toward this end. Although the pact between the coalition party and the elections, he said, was convinced of their strong desire to continue co-operation. For one thing, General Hertzog added, he could assure the people of South Africa that they would no longer be "governed by violence."

By the Associated Press.

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, June 20.—Gen. Jan Christiaan Smuts, Premier of the Union of South Africa, whose majority in the Assembly was wiped out in the week's election, has accepted the offer of Col. G. M. Claassen, member of the Assembly for Standersburg, Transvaal, to contest for him. This probably will make a two-man ticket. Smuts will return to Parliament, but as leader of the opposition.

Newspapers hold that Gen. Smuts has been beaten on issues that have hardly any relevance at all to matters of great international importance. The defeat was a local controversy. It is the general opinion that the new Ministry of Gen. J. B. Hertzog will attempt anything extreme in the way of secession from the British Empire, dependent as it is on a labor element, which is largely British, for support.

Practically Straight Fight Between Two Sets of Parties.

For the first time since the establishment of the Union in 1910 there was a practically straight fight between two sets of parties for the candidates of the South African party, represented by Gen. Smuts and his colleagues, had against the combined forces of the Nationalists and the Labor party. Irreconcilable as the aims of Labor and the Nationalists appear to be, they had entered into a pact for election purposes to act as a body at the polls. Although opposed to some extent by local questions and personal animosities, the main issue of the election was clear: it was between a continuation of the policy of building up South Africa on nonracial lines (as coined by its white inhabitants) and an integral unit in the British Commonwealth of nations, and the new racialism and republicanism of the Nationalists, under Gen. Hertzog, combined with the isolationist program of the Labor party led by Col. Creswell. This was pointed out in a recent article in the London Times.

The whole Union is divided by single-member constituencies, whose boundaries are periodically altered so as to secure, as far as possible, that in each province every constituency has substantially same numbers of voters.

And with the increase of population additional seats are created in the House of Assembly will continue.

SMUTS DEFEATED ON LOCAL ISSUE; SOUTH AFRICA IS TO REMAIN UNDER WHITE RULE

Labor Party (British) and Nationalists (Dutch) Unite to Unhorse Leader of the Stand-patters.

JOHANNESBURG, June 20.—General J. B. Hertzog, the nationalist leader, who is expected to form a ministry in succession to the Smuts cabinet as a result of the recent elections, emphasized the necessity of co-operation between the two principal races (British and Dutch) which make up the population of the Union in an address here today.

He declared he had always worked toward this end. Although the pact between the coalition party had formerly ended on Tuesday with the elections, he said he was convinced of their strong desire to continue co-operation. For the time being, General Hertzog added, he could assure the people of South Africa that they would no longer be "ruled by violence."

BEATEN PREMIER WHO WILL RUN FOR SEAT

GEN. JAN. CHRISTIAN SMUTS

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, June 20.—Gen. Jan. Christian Smuts, Premier of the Union of South Africa, whose majority in the Assembly was wiped out in this week's election, has accepted the offer of Col. G. M. Klaassen, member of the Assembly for Standersburg, Transvaal, to contest for his seat. This probably will make certain that Smuts will return to Parliament, but as leader of the opposition.

Newspapers hold that Gen. Smuts has been beaten on issues that have hardly any relevance at all in matters of great international importance. The defeat was on local controversies. It is the general opinion that the new Ministry of Gen. J. B. Hertzog will not attempt anything extreme in the way of secession from the British Empire, dependent as it is on the labor element, which is largely British, for support.

Practically Straight Fight Between Two Sets of Parties.

For the first time since the establishment of the Union in 1910 there was a practically straight fight between two sets of parties, the candidates of the South African party, represented by Gen. Smuts and his colleagues, had to meet the combined force of the Nationalists and the Labor party. Irreconcilable as the aims of Labor and the Nationalists appear to be, they had entered into a pact for election purposes to act as one body at the polls. Although objected to some extent by local sections and personal animosities, the main issue of the election was clear: it was between a continuance of the policy of building up South Africa on nonracial lines (as conceived by the white inhabitants) and as a separate unit in the British Commonwealth of nations; and the narrow racialism and republican aims of the Nationalists, under Gen. Hertzog, combined with the Socialist program of the Labor party, led by Col. Creswell. This was pointed out in a recent article in the London Times.

The whole Union is divided into single-member constituencies, whose boundaries are periodically altered so as to secure, as far as possible, that in each province every constituency has substantially the same number of voters.

And with the increase of population additional seats are created; the House of Assembly will contain 135 members, one more than the House just dissolved. The new constituency, named Delarey, is in the Transvaal, which Province will now have 50 members, as against 51 members for the Cape and 17 each for Natal and the Orange Free State.

Varying Franchise Laws. The electoral laws are not uniform. In the Transvaal and the Free State the franchise is restricted solely to European male adults, and there is practically no property qualification; in Natal there are some 400 non-European voters; in the Cape Province, where there are property and other qualifications for the franchise, the vote is given irrespective of color and race, and there are over 40,000 non-European electors—colored people, natives, and a few Malays and Indians.

The Union electorate numbers about 425,000, of whom 198,000 are in the Cape Province, 141,000 in the Transvaal, 50,000 in the Free State, and 35,000 in Natal. The average number of voters in each constituency is about 3000.

In none of the provinces have women the vote, and in allocating the number of seats the native vote in the Cape Province is not considered. Natal and the Free State are both over-represented in accordance with an arrangement made when the Union was formed. With the population of the Free State typically Dutch and that of Natal typically British in electoral matters, the two provinces balance one another.

In the Transvaal more than half the seats are for urban constituencies, which is accounted for by the concentration of population on the Rand and at Pretoria. It is on the Rand that Labor is strongest, and it was on the Rand that Gen. Smuts gained his greatest victories in 1921. That was, however, partly the result of three-cornered fights, with the Nationalists as well as Ministerialists opposing Labor.

The Native Vote. In the Cape Province there are fewer urban constituencies than in the Transvaal. The Cape Peninsula returns only nine members. In the country districts the Nationalists have considerable strength. In those constituencies, both in the Cape and the Transvaal, racial prejudices, loyalty to a leader, and local interests usually count for more than political convictions. In some half-dozen constituencies in the Cape the native electors hold the balance of political power. Alarmed by the exaggerated segregation policy of Gen. Hertzog, the native and colored electors were expected to vote for the South African party, which has shown sympathy for the economic and social interests of the non-European. Some of the colored and native electors advocated abstention from the polling booths on the ground that none of the white parties is prepared to do them justice.

Majorities of under 200 are usual. The electorate is, indeed, very evenly divided, for in many districts the ideal of co-operation by the white races has made but slow progress among men long accustomed to the rivalry of Dutch and British, a rivalry which the Nationalists, despite late professions of certain of their leaders, have accentuated.

At the 1921 election nine South African Party candidates were returned unopposed, while only one Nationalist had a walkover. The figures were: S. A. P., 138,042; Nationalists, 104,892; Labor, 28,983. Hitherto at each of the three general elections since their party was formed, the Nationalist strength has increased. There is a clear majority in the Union for the continuance of co-operation between the two white races and for the maintenance of the British connection—which is a plank in the Labor platform—but there is a keen dislike of the Smuts administration, which brought about the pact between Nationalists and Labor.

MAYO'S CONVICTION UPHOLD
Connecticut Manufacturer Loses Appeal on Bigamy Charge.
NEW YORK, June 20.—The conviction of Virginus St. Julian Mayo, wealthy motor radiator manufacturer of New Haven, Conn., on a charge of bigamy was unanimously affirmed today by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.

Unless an appeal is granted, Mayo must serve a prison sentence of not less than one nor more than three years. He was convicted May 6, 1922, but was released on a certificate of reasonable doubt, pending appeal. Mrs. Wilhelmina Meyer Mayo of Newark, N. J., who preferred the bigamy charge in 1919, alleged that Mayo married her in 1904, while he was still the husband of Mrs. Florence Weeks Mayo of Scranton, Pa.

Moving Machine Injures Child.
DANVILLE, Ill., June 20.—With one foot cut off by a moving machine and the other possibly requiring amputation, Russell Leon Bodine, 3 years old, is near death at a local hospital. Manfred Bodine was mowing alfalfa at his farm in Fountain County, Ind., and was not aware of the presence of his son in the field until he appeared almost in front of the reaper. The horses bolted and drew the mower over the child.

STEPHEN CONNELL GOING TO HONDURAS FOR BOND-JUMPER
He Will Bring Back George A. Moore, Who Was Found Through Letters to Woman.
Stephen Connell, head of the local division of the Secret Service Bureau, will depart next week for Honduras to bring back George A. Moore, bond-jumping counterfeiter who was found when letters addressed by him to a wealthy Southern woman fell into the hands of agents who threatened to make the letters public unless she told where he was.

The round trip will take nearly a month, and the signature of Moore's $10,000 bond, John Keegan and John Kelly, who pay the expenses, suggested that an airplane be used between New Orleans and Honduras. Connell preferred to stick to the means of travel with which he is accustomed. It is expected that the bond forfeiture, ordered more than a year ago, will be set aside, in view of the bondman's diligence.

Charles E. Wheelock, arrested with Moore for counterfeiting War Savings Stamps on Oct. 10, 1921, at 5961 Enright avenue, is a fugitive, having jumped his appeal bond when his nine-year sentence was upheld in the higher court.

MARRIAGE ANNULLMENT SIGNED
Mrs. Harris' Motion for Summary Judgment Is Denied by Court.
NEW YORK, June 20.—Supreme Court Justice Wagner yesterday signed an interlocutory decree annulling the marriage of Beverly D. Harris, former banker, from Eleanor Elaine Lee. The decree is based on the findings of a jury before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel, last winter, that Mrs. Harris had deceived her husband before their marriage.

Justice Wagner also denied Mrs. Harris' motion for a summary judgment in her suit against her former husband to recover $15,500 which she alleged is due her under a separation agreement, signed in May, 1921, to pay her $1000 a month.

Woman Owner of Dog Fined.
Mrs. Clara Zorvas of 513A North Whittier street, was fined $5 and costs in police court today for having a bad dog not under proper restraint. A. D. Trotter of 909 Carroll street testified he was passing Mrs. Zorvas' home yesterday when the dog ran out and bit him.

CONFERENCE HERE ON RAILROAD PROBLEMS

Several Hundred Interested Persons Attend Meeting of Regional Advisory Board.

Several hundred representatives of shippers, railroads, public utilities and other banking, industrial and agricultural interests, assembled at the City Club today in the sixth regular and first annual meeting of the Trans-Missouri-Kansas Regional Advisory Board of the American Railway Association, to discuss problems of service arising between shippers and railroads.

Clyde E. Reed, former chairman of the Kansas Public Utilities Commission and now chairman of the Trans-Missouri-Kansas Regional Advisory Board, which also takes in parts of Illinois, Arkansas and Oklahoma, in calling the meeting to order, outlined the origin of the board a year ago and told of its several meetings in Kansas City.

The holding of the first annual meeting in St. Louis, he said, was in recognition of the fact that St. Louis was the largest shipping center in the district.

The immediate problem facing shippers and the railroads was the movement of wheat from Oklahoma and Kansas, he asserted. In the former State harvesting has begun, and in Kansas, which normally produces about 120,000,000 bushels of wheat annually, there are indications that the present crop will equal or exceed this.

The morning session was devoted to hearing reports from railroads, operating in the district, as to car movements. Figures were sought particularly from those roads in Oklahoma and Kansas which have to do with originating wheat shipments. As these figures were assembled it became apparent that the needs of the communities will be cared for adequately, in the opinion of both shippers and traffic officials.

Reed commented on the efficiency shown by the railroads in handling last year the largest volume of freight movement in their history.

"As is generally known," he said, "the unit of freight-car movement is the mileage per freight car per day. There are approximately 2,600,000 freight cars in service, and the movement of these cars in 1922-23 was increased from 29 to 25 per cent. This was equivalent to adding from 500,000 to 600,000 cars to this equipment."

Reports on Car Supply.

The day's program called for reports on car supply and distribution from M. J. Gormley, J. Gormley, chairman of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association, and from the individual railroads and representatives of the State Public Service Commissions. In the latter division, among those present were J. W. Gormley, chairman, Kansas Public Utilities Commission; V. E. Smart, rate expert of the Missouri Public Service Commission, and C. B. Bee, traffic adviser for the Oklahoma Commission.

D. D. Conn, manager of the Public Relations Section, submitted a memorandum concerning the importance of uniform use of railroad facilities. "Greater utility and constant usage of the individual transportation unit—the freight car," was the paramount conclusion of the memorandum.

"At the present time there are approximately 300,000 surplus locomotives, not including bad order equipment," the memorandum stated. "Yet, no one would claim that the present machine was too large, or large enough, because it was used to capacity in 1923. The present idle investment represents a liability not only to the carriers but also to the public who are paying for it. Such conditions are not of recent development."

Cars Used Spasmodically.

"Periods of accentuated car surplus and shortage have been the order of the day in acute degree for several years. Commencing with our entrance into the war and continuing up to the present time, excepting 1923, transportation facilities have been used very spasmodically, accounting for the most acute cycles of shortages and surpluses."

The conference also afforded the first organizing meeting of the St. Louis representatives on the Regional Board. The divisions are grain and grain products, sand and gravel, coal manufacturers and miscellaneous, lumber, banking, salt, lime and plaster and hay.

HEAD OF BUS LINES CONFERS WITH MAYOR KIEL ON PLANS

President of Vehicle Company Explains His Side of Situation in This City.

John Ritchie of Chicago, president of the Chicago Motor Coach Operating Co., which operates the St. Louis bus lines, went to the City Hall at noon today for a conference with Mayor Kiel to explain the company's side of the bus situation here.

The United Railways Reorganization Committee has offered $2,400,000 for the bus lines, as has been told in the Post-Dispatch. This offer and operating problems were said by Ritchie to be principal things he desired to discuss with the Mayor.

Seventy-four buses are in use here now and two more have been ordered and are said to be on the way.

"and I hope she'll be a fool—"

THE NURSE was bending over the bed of a young mother whose first child had just been born.

"You have a beautiful little girl," she whispered.

"A girl?" The young mother's eyes opened. Suddenly she began to cry.

"All right," she said brokenly, "I'm glad it's a girl. And I hope she'll be a fool—that's the best thing a girl can be in this world, a beautiful little fool."

F. Scott Fitzgerald relates this true incident on page 13 of Woman's Home Companion for July. The Scott Fitzgerald of that "younger generation" which got itself so thoroughly talked over in the months immediately following the war.

"Wait till you have children of your own," older folks said to them. Well, the period of waiting is over. They have children; they are parents. What sort of parents? What kind of ideals will the children of this new, free generation have?

Not the ideals of the young mother whose pessimistic outburst is quoted above. Mr. Fitzgerald dismisses her with a sentence. But neither will they be the ideals that ruled the world twenty, or fifteen, or even ten years ago.

You will disagree with part of Mr. Fitzgerald's article. You may be angry at part of it; but in it you will discern another reason why the Woman's Home Companion has such a remarkable hold on its 2,000,000 readers.

By some instinct which is surer than logic, the woman who edits the Companion keeps it just a trifle ahead. While the world is still talking of the "younger generation" as irresponsible boys and girls, she presents them as parents. The development of tomorrow is her interest—in clothes, in food, in home-making, in thought.

And women respond to her instinct. Not all of them—not the isolated woman who cries, "Let my daughter be a fool," and not the woman who carries conservatism to excess. But the great middle majority. They write to this woman editor; they read what she writes; they guide her in her thinking, and she guides them.

URBAN SHOCKER HURRIES FROM COURT TO WIN BALL GAME

Brown's Pitcher Settles Suit Against R. R. on Behalf of Sturgeon for $400.
Urban Shocker, Brown's pitcher, and his wife were in Circuit Judge Miller's court yesterday afternoon to compromise a suit against the United Railways filed by Shocker in behalf of his wife's son, Cletas Kamp, for the death of his father, Arthur Kamp.
After testifying, Shocker hurried from the courthouse to the ball park and replaced Pitcher Bayne in the seventh inning, winning the game for the Browns.
The damage suit was based on the death of the boy's father, Arthur Kamp, 4238 McRee avenue, who was killed March 16, 1923, when an automobile in which he was riding collided with a street car on the Jefferson avenue viaduct. The Shockers told the court that at the time of Kamp's death he was not supporting his son, who is 14 years old. Shocker testified that he intended to adopt Cletas, whose mother divorced Kamp seven years ago. The suit was for $10,000, but the Shockers agreed to a settlement of $400, of which their attorney is to have $200. It had been agreed to pay the attorney $200 but Judge Miller said he would not approve a settlement allowing more than $3 1-3 per cent to counsel in the case of a minor.

Man and Girl Companion Forced Out of Car in O'Fallon Park.
Ernest Elmore of 1114 Madison street and Miss Effie Firmon, 1112 Madison street, were seated in Elmore's coupe at the Harris avenue entrance to O'Fallon Park at 10:30 p. m. yesterday when two men wearing masks poked revolvers into the car and made them get out.
"We want to borrow this for a while," one remarked as they got in and drove away. They made no effort to rob Elmore or the girl. The car was not recovered.

POLICY BOOKS FOUND IN RAID ON APARTMENT

Three Men and Two Young Women Arrested at 3677 Olive Street.

Detective Sergeant Dempsey and members of his gambling squad looked in yesterday afternoon at apartment 302, third floor, 3677 Olive street, and found three men and two young women there, working on policy books. The books and other material found there, Dempsey thinks, establish the apartment as the headquarters of several policy games that have been operating in St. Louis.

The property seized included $1292, about 1900 agents memorandum books, type and typewriter for printing numbers on policy tickets, stationery and the lease for the apartment, bearing the name of a man who was not present, but who is being sought.

The five were arrested. The young women said they were Eleanor Murphy, 24, and Irene Kelly, 22, both of 3651 West Pine boulevard, who had just dropped in to see a friend. The men said they were Leonard Wahlstrom, 26, a lithographer, 3677 Olive street; Beverly Welch, 25, a telephone operator, 1632 South Broadway, and Harry O'Leary, 28, of 3611 Olive street. They refused to talk. The five were released on bond. The property was held as evidence. Warrants will be asked today.

JESSE JAMES' NAME FOUND IN THE MARK TWAIN CAVE

Discovery in Previously Unexplored Passage Revives Story It Was Hiding Place.

HANNIBAL, Mo., June 20.—Forty years or so ago Jesse James, Missouri's pioneer bandit chieftain, led his band of fearless robbers up and down the highways and byways of the state. Spectacular bits of outlaw history and the report that he used the Mark Twain cave here as a hiding place, revived by the finding of James' name in a previously unexplored passage of the cavern.

Judge E. T. Cameron of this city, owner of the cave made famous by the noted Missouri humorist, Samuel Langhorne Clemens (whose pen name was Mark Twain) in the stories of "Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer," discovered the inscription high up on the walls of the passageway. It reads:

"Jesse James—September 22, 1873."

One story about the cave, that Jesse James and his band used the cavern on numerous occasions as a hiding place, is told by a former cave guide, John W. East, who says that on one occasion when he was taking a party of tourists through the cave five strange men were met. The mysterious strangers passed solemnly on, however, after mumbling a greeting.

When they had gone out of sight, one man in the tourist party exclaimed to East: "Get us out of here as quickly as possible! One of those men was Jesse James. I know him but he did not recognize me."

East says the five strange men all carried knives. Several days after the incident in the cavern, he was called to take five men to the station at Saverton, Mo., nearby. When he met the party he discovered they were the mysterious strangers of the cave. After he took them to Saverton, they gave him $10.

COMMITTEE WILL INQUIRE INTO DIFFICULTIES IN INDIA
Sessions Will Be Held in Simla Under English Chairman. Defects of Law to Be Studied.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 20.—The India office has announced that the Governor of India, with the approval for the Secretary for India, has decided to appoint a committee to inquire into the difficulties and defects in the working government of India, and to determine the feasibility of obtaining remedies for such defects as are consistent with the structure, purposes and policies of the act.

The membership of the committee will be both Indian and British under the chairmanship of Alexander Muddiman. It will hold its sessions at Simla and report to the Governor-General. The appointment of the committee apparently is the Indian Government's response to Indian demands for a round table conference on questions which the Imperial Government could not meet because the India act provides that the question of revision cannot arise for a period of five years.

CHARGES WOMEN WHIPPED HER
Louisiana Woman Files Suit for $75,000, Alleging Torture.
By the Associated Press.
ALEXANDRIA, La., June 20.—Charging that she was taken from her home by three women and horsewhipped, Mrs. Lillian Bonnette has filed suit for $75,000 in District Court against Mrs. Gertrude Ball, Mrs. Amelia Jordan and Mrs. Leslie Hatchett, whom she named as her alleged assailants.

Mrs. Bonnette declares that on the night of April 25 she was in her home clothed in a kimono and bedroom slippers, recovering from an operation, when the three women entered her house, beat her and pulled her hair, "hog-tied" her, searched her house, taking a revolver, necklace and fur, then put her in an automobile and took her into the woods where she was "beaten and tortured like a dog," Mrs. Bonnette is the mother of a boy of 7 and a girl 9 years old, and lived with her husband four miles from here.

LATEST 'KIDNAPING' LETTER THREATENS FRANKS' GIRL

Message to Judge Turned Over to Chicago Police—Believed Work of a "Crank."

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 28.—Another "kidnaping" letter, this time threatening Josephine Franks, sister of kidnapped and slain 14-year-old Robert Franks, to which Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb have confessed, has been received by Chief Justice Caverly of the Criminal Court, it was learned today.

The letter is regarded by Justice Caverly as the work of a "crank." It was signed "George Johnson," the name used in the ransom note sent by Leopold and Loeb. It is only one of 100 letters received by him concerning the Franks case, and was turned over to the police.

Because the latest letter came so soon after a note threatening to kidnap the 14-year-old son of Irving H. Hartman, wealthy furniture dealer, who has sent his two children to Baltimore, the police believe a number of cranks are spending their spare time writing such notes.

Auto Hits Horse; 2 Persons Die.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 28.—A woman and a man were killed and six others were injured when an automobile ran into a group of equestrians at a highway intersection near Lyons late last night. Mrs. Piper and her brother-in-law, named Kerper, both among occupants of the automobile, were killed. Edward Burdick, of the equestrians, was injured when he and his horse were thrown from the road way. Kerper's wife and three children and another woman were injured.

BIG DAY FOR DRY RAIDERS AT STATE CAPITAL

Men Led by Heber Nations Arrest 15 Persons in Seven Saloons and Find Two Stills.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 28.—Six Federal prohibition enforcement agents spent a busy day in the State capital yesterday, raiding seven soft-drink saloons, obtaining warrants against five other such establishments in which agents had purchased liquor, and confiscated two stills in two raids on farms near Jefferson City. Fifteen persons were arrested, including a former policeman, a former constable and one woman, and furnished bonds of $1000 each.

Heber Nations, publisher of a Jefferson City newspaper and former State Labor Commissioner, accompanied the Federal agents on the raids. Nations is under indictment as a result of the recent Federal grand jury investigation in St. Louis of the sale there of "protected beer." He is a brother of Gus O. Nations, who resigned as chief enforcement officer in Missouri to seek the Republican nomination for the office of Attorney-General.

Five of the places raided are in the business section and two in the residence section. Among those arrested were former Constable Joe Wendleton; C. G. Hildebrand, a former policeman; and Mrs. Alice Tharp, at whose home the agents reported finding a quantity of home brew.

Agents who raided the Missouri Bar, 411 West Main street, stated small boys were assisting the bartender in the sale of liquor. When a customer asked for whiskey, they said, the bartender called to a boy loitering on the back porch. The child would enter the bar and produce a bottle of liquor from his pockets, the agents said, and the bartender would pour out a drink, returning the bottle to the child.

When this bar was raided two boys and a girl, about 13 years old, are reported to have run from the porch into the back yard and broke two bottles of liquor with rocks.

Broken Phone Wires Aid Fugitive.
By the Associated Press.
OREGON, Ill., June 28.—With telephone wires in Northern Illinois down as a result of this morning's storm, Ogle County authorities are greatly hampered in efforts to recapture Allen Camling, 24 years old, Byron farmer, who sawed his way out of the Ogle County jail some time between midnight and morning. Camling was being held for grand jury action on charges of being head of a gang of thieves who have been working in this county for several weeks, and it is believed he had outside help in making his escape.

KLEINE FAILS TO APPEAR, BOND FORFEITURE LIKELY

The bondsmen for Edwin F. Kleine, convicted former treasurer of the St. Clair Coal and Mining Co., has failed to produce his client, and faces a forfeiture of a $2000 bond under which Kleine appealed to the Supreme Court under a two-year sentence for defrauding the city on short-weight coal.

Yesterday Sheriff Stradtman ordered the bondsmen, Adolph W. Wiet of 2222 South Twelfth street, to surrender Kleine by 3 p. m. or face forfeiture. Kleine did not appear, and the Sheriff telegraphed the Supreme Court recommendation order of forfeiture. Wiet and Kleine's father, Frederick W.

Kleine, said yesterday they did not know Edwin Kleine's whereabouts. Kleine's attorney today filed in the Supreme Court a motion for transfer of the case to the court en banc. The decision affirming his sentence was reached unanimously by Division No. 2 of the court, and that division has declined to grant a rehearing.

NEGRO, WHO KILLED STUDENT AND SHOT GIRL, EXECUTED

Man Who Attacked Women Missionaries Is Hanged in Arizona Prison.

By the Associated Press.
FLORENCE, Ariz., June 28.—William B. Ward, negro, was hanged at dawn this morning at the State Prison here for the murder of Ted Grosh, Arizona University student.

Grosh was slain on Dec. 28, when riding in an automobile with Miss Maxine McNelly. Ward stopped their car, stepped on the running board and fired a bullet into the head of Grosh, killing him instantly. He then forced Miss McNelly from the car and made her accompany him to an abandoned mining tunnel, where he attacked her and fired two shots into her body. She eventually recovered and was a witness against Ward.

After his conviction, Ward tried to gain his freedom by attempting to kidnap and hold in his cell two women missionaries who were calling on him. One of the women suffered severe injuries when he attempted to force her into his cell, there to be held until he was promised his freedom. Fellow convicts, attracted by the screams of the women, rushed to their rescue, and were prevented from killing Ward only by the intervention of R. B. Sims, superintendent. Ward was confined in the prison hospital for several days following his beating by the convicts.

Ward had said he has a hatred for Caucasians since he witnessed the burning at the stake of six negroes by a mob in Paris, Tex., several years ago. He read for hours daily from a Bible.

BODY OF WOMAN, WITH SKULL FRACTURED, TAKEN FROM RIVER
Found Near Hardin, Mo., and May Be That of Kansas City Resident.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 28.—

The body of a young woman, the skull fractured and the jaw broken in two places, was taken from the Missouri River last yesterday near Hardin, Mo., about 50 miles from here. Dr. G. W. Gaines, Coroner of Ray County, said the woman apparently had been murdered and then thrown into the river. She was dressed only in underclothing.

Kansas City (Kan.) police were informed last week that a woman had been thrown into the Kaw River from the Kansas City-Southern Bridge shortly after midnight, June 12.

Daniel Harding, Kansas City (Kan.) watchman, told the police a Ford sedan passed him shortly after midnight the morning of June 12, and crossed the Southern Bridge, over which there is virtually no traffic at that hour. The end of a wooden box projected from

CHAPTER FIFTY-SIX

"THE poor, poor simpleton," she thought. "He thinks he'll like it; Gibbs has filled him full. He'll hate it as I hate it now inside of a fortnight. He never would be contented in such a place; what would he do without his theaters and the gay night life he loves? It's hard enough for us to live as we are—we have to struggle and struggle to make ends meet—and here he is mad to try an even more expensive method of living, involving clubs and club dues, yachts and commutation fares! . . . And in such a community with such people! The flat-headed Gibbises and their awful friends picnicking there on the sand that terrible Fourth of July! And Martin proposes I exchange them and their vulgar dreadful society, their masquerades and card parties, for my beautiful little apartment which I've tried to make perfect, which everyone admires, and which is my joy and delight!"

There was a dangerous, fixed smile on her face as she rose from the dinner table where they had been lingering over their black coffee, and rang the little brass bell for Hilda to clear away.

"Well, what do you think, Jan? Don't you believe we'd both come to love the country? Don't you think we'd have a pack of fun down there?"

She eyed him with a cold stare a moment before she answered slowly:

"I won't consider it." His face fell.

"What's more," she added briefly, "I think you're a fool."

His expression darkened; he glowered at her, hurt to the quick. She ignored him and went about the living-room straightening objects, lowering shades, adjusting lights. All the time she was steeling herself to the wrangle she knew was coming. She would be equal to it; she would give him straight talk; she'd let him have a piece of her mind and make him realize how absurd he was, how utterly insane. Buying yachts and joining clubs! What did he think he was, anyway? A millionaire?

The storm, when it broke, was the most violent they had yet known; it was even worse than she had anticipated. Martin, usually noisy, cursing, was quick to recover, while she rarely lost control of speech or action. But now the thought of giving up her little home, as he calmly proposed, infuriated her. He had not the faintest conception of how she loved it; he had never done one single thing to improve or beautify it beyond buying those frightful Macy daises!

For the first time in their quarrels she could not control her tears. Convulsed with sobbing, Martin thought she had capitulated. He waited several minutes in distressed silence and then came to where she lay upon the couch to put his arms about her and draw her to him, but she turned on him with a fury that was shocking. Rebuffed, he stared at her savagely, then snatched his hat and coat and left her with a violent bang of the door.

Jeannette never for one moment thought she could not swing Martin to her wishes. She could not conceive of herself weakening; Martin had always been easy-going, good-natured. But she had forgotten how purposeful he could be when his intent was hot; she had forgotten his perseverance, his patience, his indefatigability when he wooed her; she had forgotten his winningness, his persuasiveness. He brought all these qualities into play now; there was no side-tracking him, no gainsaying him. His mind was locked against the renewal of their lease, and set upon Cohasset Beach. He argued, he calmed, he pleaded, he coaxed. Never had she known him so irritating or so winning. If she grew cross, he was amiable; if she grew sorrowful, he was consoling and tender; if she advanced arguments that brooked no reply, he was loving and answered her with kindness. But he was determined; nothing swerved him from his purpose.

Once again, Jeannette found no comforting support in anybody. Her mother said she ought to give in to her husband if he was so set upon the plan; it was the wife's place to give way. Alice thought it would be delightful to live in the country, and assured her sister she would come to love it; she and Roy had been talking all winter about moving to some place on Long Island or in New Jersey, but it was hard to find anything really nice for twenty-five dollars a month within commuting distance of the city; they were going to board at Freeport again for the summer and they intended to look around and see what they could find there. It would be ideal for the children. . . . Was there any hope . . . any prospect . . . ?

On the anniversary of her wedding day she surrendered. Martin had been so sweet and gentle with her, so anxious to please, so considerate, every impulse within her prompted her to do the thing he wanted. She could see how eager he was for his sail-boat, his new club and the country; he was mad to have them; her heart was full of love for him. She reminded herself that when she had entered into this marriage she had been determined to give more, if need be, than he did, to make their union a success. Here was an opportunity. It meant a great sacrifice for herself; she had no faith in the experiment, but felt sure she would learn to hate all the people and the place, and Martin would soon tire of it and them and share her feelings. But now it was the thing above all else he wanted, and it was her chance to be generous.

She extracted from him two promises, however. It was a foregone conclusion, she told him, that she would not be happy at Cohasset Beach, but if she agreed to go and live there with him, it must be understood between them that she was to be free to come into New York as often as she pleased, to shop or to visit her mother and Alice, or do anything she liked. He must also understand that he was to keep a closer watch upon their finances. With commutation, railroad fares and club dues added to their expenses they would have to practice a much more rigid economy. She wanted to get the table expenditures down to fifteen dollars a week, and that would be out of the question if he expected her to entertain. As soon as they were out of debt and had a little ahead, she would be more than willing to have him invite people to visit them.

He promised everything. He was only too anxious and willing, he said, to agree to all she asked, to show his deep gratitude.

The bungalow at Cohasset Beach, at first sight, consoled her in some degree for giving up the apartment. The little house was charming, and charmingly situated. It had been built a few years before by a rich old lady, an invalid, who had been compelled to pass her days in a wheel-chair which she operated herself. Because of the chair, the house had been planned bungalow-fashion, though there was an upstairs of two small bedrooms and an extra bath, and the doorways between rooms had been made particularly wide to permit the easy passage of the chair. Inside there were oak floors throughout, a spacious fireplace, and an oak-timbered ceiling in a generous-sized living-room, off which opened two bedrooms and, opposite, the dining-room. There was an acre or so of unkempt ground about the house with some gnarled old apple trees, in blossom when Jeannette first saw them, and at the rear the ground sloped down to a rush-bordered pool in whose rippling surface all the colors of the sky, blossoming trees and bordering reeds were intensified in glorious reflection. A white cow stood upon her own inverted image at the farther side. There was no view of the Sound—the bungalow was a good mile from the water—but it was picturesquely set, and Jeannette felt, since she had been forced to abandon the city, she could not have found a home in the country that suited her better.

Only a Book

DRAWN BY
WALT VAN ARSDALE

WHO was it that said he knew of no greater pleasure in the world than lying flat on your back under a nice shady tree—without a book? We've forgotten, but let's change it just a bit to read:

We know of no greater pleasure in all the wide, wide world than sitting on golden sands listening to the waves of the sea break against the shore and reading a book of poetry—except sitting on the same sands under the same blue sky, near the same blue sea, living poetry!

—WALT VAN ARSDALE.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Washing New Blankets.
If your blankets are to receive their first washing this summer, soak them over night in cold water to which a handful of borax has been added. They will be much easier to wash than if put directly into suds.

A Typhoid Preventive.
The Army Medical School has perfected a simple way of purifying water that any camper can easily adopt. Fill your thermos bottle with water and then add one drop of tincture of iodine. Shake the water about a bit and in 20 minutes it will be ready to drink, with all harmful bacteria destroyed.

Worth Remembering.
One fried food is sufficient for one meal.
To prevent shine, ribbons should be pressed on the wrong side.
Every person should drink at least six glasses of water every day.
Turn the roast with a large spoon rather than a fork. A fork pierces the meat and allows the juices to escape.
If the top of the pie is brushed with sweet milk before baking, it will be shiny and brown and good to look at.

When a Friend Fails You

By Sophie Irene Loeb

WHEN you have stood by one through thick and thin—mostly thin—And would stake your life that he would stand by you; When you have sacrificed for him And borne, oh, so much, without question, And then to find the selfsame one turn from you—

And side with another—against you—Ah, me! of all the pangs There is none that goes so deep as this. Such a one has robbed you of more than he will ever know—

Not the mere matter at hand, But he has taken from you Something of the great belief in friendship That you have built through all the years And upon which your whole world has moved— Loyalty, which is as the strength of the ages, He has cast a doubt on all other friends, Misgiving that they prove as he has And fear that they will fail. But take heart. Be glad That you have found him out— His yellow streak is now disclosed— And there are left somewhere in the universe Those who have a strain of pure gold, unalloyed. And will fight your foe in your defense, Who never are neutral When your interest is at stake. They are few indeed, but they live, And are made of such mettle As will stand the test of time and even eternity.

What You Can Do to Have Beautiful Eyes

By LUCREZIA BORI, the Famous Spanish Prima Donna

CLEAR, bright, healthy eyes dominate an attractive face.

The woman who wants to look healthy and attractive must take care of her eyes, for no matter how perfect the molding of her features, their loveliness will be overshadowed if she allows her eyes to become weak and red. Any weakness of the eyes is usually registered in the system as quickly as in any other way. A sick person's eyes appear dull and listless, or abnormally bright with fever. A well person's eyes appear bright and clear and healthy. There should be no strained look about them, and the whites should be clear and the lids appear strong and healthy. If your lids become red about the edges this is a warning that you are straining your eyes or abusing them in some way.

Now, one of the first requisites for healthy, lovely eyes is plenty of sleep. If you cheat yourself by cutting down on your proper amount of sleep you will find that your eyes smart and burn, and that this condition is reflected in the appearance of your eyelids and the whites of your eyes.

An equally important precaution for eye-beauty is to avoid using your eyes in a bad light. Never become so interested in the book you are reading that you forget the waning light and read on and on in semi-darkness. It is better, also, to avoid reading in a reclining position. Many people form the habit of reading in bed at night because it seems to be the only time they have to read, but if you do this you should sit up instead of reading in a semi-reclining position.

If you find that your eyes sting, or that you have unknowingly strained them in some way, here is an excellent tonic to help relieve the condition:

Powdered alum, 10 grains; Sulphate of zinc, 10 grains; Water, 1/2 pint.

Boil your water and allow it to cool. You should measure the half pint after the water has boiled and cooled so as to be sure of having your full amount.

Dissolve the two ingredients in the water and use the tonic as an eye-wash.

You may buy an eye-cup or an eye-dropper from your druggist. The cup is used by filling it with the tonic, placing it to your eye, and holding your head back so the tonic can get into all parts of your eye. The dropper really wastes less of the eye-lotion. It is simply a small glass tube with a rubber bulb at one end, and if you hold your head back you can drop the lotion into the corner of your open eye, and from there it will circulate to all parts.

Remember always that you have only one pair of eyes and that they can never be replaced.

FAVORITE DISHES OF ALL NATIONS

Chinese Mushroom Soup.
AKE three cups of dried mushrooms, diced, and boil in water for half an hour; then drain off and put in nine cups of soup stock. Boil this for 15 minutes. Now add about a cupful of diced chicken, two beaten eggs, a teaspoon Chinese sauce, a few drops sesame oil and salt. Boil a little longer, then stir in half a teaspoon cornstarch and take off the fire.

MEDITATION—OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

EVERY now and then some man arises and announces that he is mentally inferior to man because she has never invented anything.

Well—let's see. Who discovered sin?

The Inquisitive Sex—of course!

The first woman who took the first bite of the first apple. And no man has ever tried to rob her of the distinction he has robbed her of most of the sins.

Who discovered love? The Sentimental Sex!

If it had not been for woman's flair for coquetry, her petting and her demand for devotion, the caveman would have found out that his desire to club her senseless and home by the hair was "LOVE."

Who invented clothes? The Vain Sex? Certainly!

If it had not been for feminine vanity, man would be going around in carriage-ropes in winter and fig-leaves in summer, without so much as widening a trouser leg or changing button from season to season.

Take all the women out of the world and he would be safety-razors, boiled collars, silk hats and patent leather shoes less than a year.

Who invented marriage? Surely the Cautious Sex.

No man ever goes into marriage intentionally and deliberately. He merely stumbles into it or skids into it, when some woman got him so dizzy that he can't see WHERE he is steering.

Who invented speech, dialogue, reports, polite conversation? NOT the Monosyllable Sex! Oh, no—the Chatty Sex!

If it had not been for woman's passionate desire to tell and to "express herself," man would still be conversing in grunts and clinching his argument with a blow, instead of an epigram or with the story about "Pat and Mike."

Who discovered cooking? The Fastidious Sex!

If it had not been for woman's hypercritical sense of taste, man would still be eating his mutton raw, his lamb without sauce, his mushroom without toast and his grass without nause.

Who invented "society," jazz-teas, course-dinners, week-ends, scandal, charity-fetes and matrimonial unrest? The sex.

Take all the women out of the world and man would be to Nature in less than five years—and be healthy, happy and comfortable.

As it is there are times when he seems to be still in a barbarism, only slightly modified by woman, the haven of cover!

Keeping a Confidence

By Ruth Leigh

WELL-KNOWN bank official made this remark to me recently: "When I am choosing a secretary there is one quality I look for above every other. It is the ability to hold her tongue and to be 'smoothed when necessary.'"

The banker went on to explain that in his line of work accuracy (and almost every executive) is of prime importance. It is vital that certain matters of trust, or even personal matters, which a private secretary assists, be kept confidential.

He had had many capable assistants, he told me. "Young men who in every other respect have made excellent private secretaries, but I learned from indirect sources that they were in the office private confidential matters which I not only had to know, but which I had to keep confidential."

According to this banker, the acid test of a worth-while secretary—whether, when told that a matter is confidential, she can keep it confidential. This official told me that he had a secretary now who, in some ways, was not all that was to be desired, but she did possess this desirable trait of being able to keep her mouth closed when necessary.

"If I tell her that a certain matter must be kept confidential, she cannot drag it from me," he said. "I think this is a matter worth thinking about—whether you are a private secretary, a bookkeeper, or any job. I have found that there is too much bandying around of confidential affairs, and behind-door gossiping is frequently the cause of office upsets, misunderstandings and really serious situations that arise in business life."

Let's don't be loose-tongued. Let's treat may be all right for society, ever-the-fence gossip. It isn't part of the modern business girl's equipment. Know when to keep things quiet. If you can't say anything to say, other than "gossip about folks in the office," about the confidential affairs, and behind-door gossiping is frequently the cause of office upsets, misunderstandings and really serious situations that arise in business life.

Let's tell it—if not now, some time. Even if the other person swears and promises "never breathe a word," don't tell it. How to keep a confidence.

Oh, look, here's the little Match Girl! And there's Ida, who knew how to talk to the flowers in the queen's garden and how to understand when they answered her! And All Those Wondrous Others.

What's that waddling along so clumsily and yet so calmly in the very middle of the crowd? Why, the Ugly Duckling, to be sure! Keep your eye on him, he's likely to turn into a swan right when you're looking at him.

Well, well, to think, they're all coming back after the uplifiers have sent them to Coventry for so many years!

Walter H. Furlong is bringing them back. He says there's nothing in the world like a good fairy story for a good little girl or even for a naughty little boy.

Children know how to "pretend," says Mr. Furlong, and pretending is just another kind of fairy story. Away with the solemn little prigs who stare at you contemptuously and say they don't believe in fairy tales!

"They don't believe in Santa Claus either, or in the Easter rabbit. Oh, they know it all, the poor little cold-hearted, shallow-brained unimaginative things!"

Yes, I agree with Mr. Furlong. I'd just as soon have a little boy made of wax or a little girl carved out of wood standing in a corner in my house as to bring up a child who doesn't know and love every one of the old fairy stories that have come down through the years.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Jack the Giant Killer's Return

WINIFRED BLACK

HIP, hip, hooray! Jack the Giant Killer has come back into the fashion!

So has Puss in Boots, and right along with them is the Sleeping Beauty. And trailing along behind them and in front of them and all around them are the little green dwarf and the great big giants and Sindbad the Sailor and Aladdin—why, yes, there's Aladdin in his queer robes and funny turban! Look, who's that beside him? Why, Sindbad, of course. Don't you see that queer-looking thing he carries in his hand?

That's the Roc's egg to be sure. How could you ever fail to recognize it?

There's Little Red Riding Hood, bless her heart, in her red cloak with a basket on her arm. Dear me! I'd like to open that basket this minute and cut a slice from the brown loaf inside it and—

There's the Prince all in white and silver—don't you remember the one who shot the arrow into the air and followed it down the enchanted road and found the beautiful princess changed into a goose girl by a wicked magician?

Oh, look, here's the little Match Girl! And there's Ida, who knew how to talk to the flowers in the queen's garden and how to understand when they answered her! And All Those Wondrous Others.

What's that waddling along so clumsily and yet so calmly in the very middle of the crowd? Why, the Ugly Duckling, to be sure! Keep your eye on him, he's likely to turn into a swan right when you're looking at him.

picking up a twist in England and a turn in Germany and a curl in France and a funny little elf in Finland or in Scandinavia.

What kind of man are you going to marry, little Miss Blue Eyes? Listen to me and choose one who was brought up on fairy stories. He'll know what you mean when you sigh at the sound of the wind in the trees. He'll know why you love the moonlight and why there is something strange and soothing to you in the steady crash of the breakers on the beach.

Don't take the other kind. He'll tell you two and two make four and that's all there is to it. Of course you know that about two and two yourself and it does really get wearisome to hear it over and over three times a day when you want to think about something quite different and oh, very far away!

Welcome, Thrice Welcome, Jack! Marry the girl with Little Red Riding Hood and The Sleeping Beauty in the back of her head. My boy, she'll understand your dreams a great deal better than the girl who laughs at the idea of fairy stories.

Welcome to our city, Jack—we're glad you killed the giant! How did you ever get the courage, or was it your cousin, the other Jack, who climbed up the beanstalk and found the giant and his talking harp at the top of the vine? Anyhow, whoever you are, we're glad you found him and thankful that we had mothers and grandmothers who showed us how to climb up behind you.

Roquefort Salad Dressing.

Mash one-half cup of Roquefort cheese and rub through a sieve; add gradually six tablespoons of olive oil, stirring constantly; season with one-half teaspoon of salt, one-half teaspoon of paprika, and a few grains of cayenne. Add slowly two tablespoons of tarragon vinegar and continue stirring until thoroughly blended. If a richer dressing is desired, add two tablespoons of rich cream and omit two tablespoons of olive oil. This dressing is particularly good served with all the different members of the lettuce family. French endives, tomatoes and cucumbers. It is not, however, properly served with meat or fish salads.

How Mrs. Hummer Shingles Her Home

No question's foolish if it leads To knowledge that another needs.

—Peter Rabbit.

YOU know how curious Peter Rabbit is. He is never satisfied until he has found out all about a thing, or at least until he has found out as much as he can. Mrs. Hummer had aroused Peter's curiosity when she told him that she was looking for cobwebs for her nest. Peter couldn't understand how any bird could possibly use cobwebs in building a nest. He waited and watched for Mrs. Hummer to come back so that he might ask her more questions. But she didn't come back. Then he spied Jenny Wren.

"Well, well, well! What is it, Peter?" demanded Jenny, impatiently.

"Oh, Jenny! Jenny Wren!" Peter called.

"Well, well, well, what is it, Peter?" demanded Jenny, impatiently.

"Mrs. Hummer the Hummingbird said she was looking for cobwebs and wanted to know if I had seen any," said Peter.

"Tut, tut, tut, tut! What of it?" cried Jenny Wren.

"What did she want of them?" asked Peter.

"To use in shingling her house, I suppose," snapped Jenny Wren. "Now, have you any more foolish questions, Peter Rabbit?"

"My questions are not foolish," retorted Peter, indignantly. "What do you mean when you say that Mrs. Hummer probably wanted those webs to use in shingling her home? How does she shingle a home?"

Jenny Wren jerked her tail and cocked her head on one side as she looked down at Peter.

"What an astonishing thing it is how little some folks know," said she, apparently to no one in particular.

"And how astonishing it is how hard some folks have to work to

Jenny. "Those are what Mrs. Hummer uses."

"But what have cobwebs got to do with them?" demanded Peter.

"Why, she uses the cobwebs to fasten them to her nest, stupid," snapped Jenny. "When that nest is finished it looks for all the world like nothing more than a lichen-covered knot of the tree. Well, I can't stop gossiping here any longer." Away Jenny flew before Peter could ask another question.

ODD AND INTERESTING FACTS

Egypt's largest pyramid—that of Cheops of the Gizeh group—contains 89,000,000 cubic feet of masonry, and the total weight of the stone has been estimated at over 6,000,000 tons.

One of the most delicious of tropical fruits is the papaya, or tree melon. The tree on which it grows resembles a small palm, its slender trunk surmounted by a cluster of large leaves below which clings the conspicuous melon-like fruit. When ripe the fruit is yellow, is often 20 inches long and may weigh as much as 20 pounds. It is commonly used in the tropics for breakfast, for dessert and for salads.

There is a garden and fountain within the Bank of England enclosure.

ARE BOYS BADLY EDUCATED? By WM. A. MCKEEVER

BOYS are not being taught the building trades today. It is often very difficult to secure and hold trained masons, plasterers and other building operators.

The foregoing statement was made by the chief engineer in charge of the construction of a big building. He went on to explain that a plentiful supply of men asked for employment whenever he advertised, but they proved to be mostly pick-ups who knew little about skilled workmanship.

The mechanical trades are different. Workmen are fairly plentiful and their skill is at least passable. Also, for the reason given, and others, the building trades are compelled to pay practically twice as much for trained men as do the mechanical trades.

The fault all lies in the training of boys. The majority is kept in a school of book learning and memory training given as a poor substitute for the physical skill and the artistry which the young nature calls for. Molluscoides are swarming about us everywhere, that is, young men of low ambition and less practical skill, who were cheated out of their birthright of manual and muscular development.

Much of the thieving and robbery of today is attributable to the puny, repressive course which we are now offering to boys. It is a form or revolt of the abused and cheated instinct for rigorous training. It is the revenge of an outraged human nature.

What is the remedy, you ask? Well, that seems plain. Require every boy to do at least one-third of his school credits in the shop and in the form of apprenticeship to the leading trades. Permit certain mechanical classes of boys to offer two-thirds in the industrial arts and crafts and one-third in the ordinary book course as we give it today.

This would make it possible for all boys to continue with their learning to the extent of a high school course. But while so doing they would all partly earn their way, through the industrial practice.

Antioch College has found the secret, with its alternate class studies and shop work. Berea College has been at it for a generation, requiring every student to work a minimum of 10 hours per week. As a result these schools have few drones.

The typical high school of today is full of under-developed, under-muscled boys. A chronic, tired feeling and a sense of weakness is their natural portion. They will continue in the main aimless until we provide adequate industrial and physical practice for them.

With half time hewing stone, mixing mortar, turning a lathe, hoeing corn, tending stock, manufacturing goods, with half time at any such delightful employment and half time with the common texts, schooling would be made both a delight and a means of soul salvation for common boys.

Heaven speed the day when shops and schools shall be halves of the same complete course of training for all the young.

LARVEX

Makes Woolens Mothproof

The flying moth eats nothing. But it lays hundreds of eggs in your woolsens. The eggs hatch into tiny white worms, called moth larvae.

The moth larvae live on woolen fabrics—eating holes in your garments. But Larvex wool is inedible to the larvae. No moth holes.
